Up, De Valera
Be Cheerful
Cream for Railroads
Wall Street's Trinity

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

YOU CAN'T discourage De Valera. On August 15 he will hold a big meeting and continue the speech that was interrupted when he was arrested and locked up in August, last year.

DON'T LET anybody discourage you about the future. If we know enough to stay here in the United States and mind our own business, the future, like our national reserve, is solid gold.

OUR SALESMEN are pouring into the Northwest farming districts to sell goods that stores will soon be selling, thanks to high prices for wheat.

Stocks are going up, especially railroad stocks. That has importance for everybody, because it means that intelligent observers see good times ahead.

RAILROADS SEEM to be the "lambs" of our government, and it remembers the injunction, "Feed my lambs."

Recently, when the farmer was practically bankrupt, dozens of banks in the Northwest closing their doors, etc., it was suggested that railroads might reduce freight rates, at least on farm products.

But with wheat going up the Interstate Commerce Commission says the value of farm crops will increase a thousand million this year. Therefore, NO reduction in freight rates.

THE CREAM, off the top, must go to the railroads.

Suppose the farmers, for a change, are getting a decent price for their crops. The question is, Are the railroads charging too much? Not what the farmer is making.

GREAT AND FASHIONABLE Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, standing at the top of Wall Street, publishes this report:

Last year's income, $2,148,681.

Present assets of that little band of followers of the lowly Nazarene, $13,329,053.

THE young man (see Matthew 19th chapter) that "went away sorrowful" after being told: "Sell that thou hast and give to the poor," probably sits in Trinity's congregation, if there is anything in the reincarnation theory.

Think of one Episcopalian Church keeping on hand thirteen millions of undivided assets, while scores of the Episcopalian clergy, miserably underpaid, struggle to make ends meet.

MR. BARRON, who owns the Boston News Bureau and other financial papers, says Coolidge will be elected with TEN MILLION votes to spare, three million more surplus than Harding got.

Mr. Barron may be too enthusiastic, but he is correct in this statement:

"Conservatives will be afraid to vote for Davis for fear of electing Bryan. Radicals will be afraid to vote for Bryan for fear of electing Davis."

That situation is bad for BRYAN AND DAVIS.

YESTERDAY, it was Senator Wheeler of Montana. Now it is Senator Ladd of North Dakota that will support La Follette "without leaving the Republican party." Kansas, Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota seem safe for La Follette.

IN NEW YORK State his vote may surprise even HIS hopes. Many Democrats of the Catholic faith, offended by the religious controversy in the convention, but unwilling to spoil their records by voting for a Republican, will vote for La Follette. Make a note of that.

THE WORLD hears with amazement of the two French fliers setting a new "duration mark," staying up 37 hours 59 minutes 10 seconds. Put this clipping away for your great grandchildren. They will see a round the world machine, coming down perhaps once a year for complete overhauling, landing passengers from smaller machines above Paris, London, Yokohama, Bombay, New York. "All out." And the trip all the way around will be made in twenty-four hours—only 1,000 miles an hour.

DRAGGED TO DEATH IN PERSIA

Another American Seriously Wounded in Attack by Enraged Populace

Washington, July 19.—The State Department today was prepared to demand a formal apology and indemnity from the Persian government for the murder of Major Robert W. Imbrie, American vice-consul, by a mob of natives at Teheran, Persia. The department has ordered an immediate investigation of the slaying by diplomatic and consular agencies.

Teheran, Persia, July 19.—Major Robert M. Imbrie, American Vice-Consul here, was beaten to death by a mob.

Another American, Molin Seymour, who was with Major Imbrie, was taken to the hospital after being seriously wounded. He is not expected to live.

An official report of the fatal attack was sent to Washington today by American Minister Joseph S. Kornfeld. The latter said the Persians had mistaken the Americans for members of a sect known as Bahais, against whom the natives are opposed.

The American diplomat and his Persian secretary were photographing a public fountain when a mob suddenly attacked them.

The secretary and several policemen were injured in trying to help Imbrie defend himself.

The fountain is said to have been the scene of a miracle and is regarded as a "sacred spot."

The mob dragged Imbrie and Seymour, from their carriage and despite the efforts of the police to save them, beat and clubbed them.

Finally the mob was dispersed and the victims were found unconscious on the ground. They were rushed to a hospital. There Imbrie died.

Rioting which followed Imbrie's murder was finally halted by police. The foreign colony was thrown into consternation.

Washington, July 19.—The death of Robert W. Imbrie, vice-consul in charge at Teheran, Persia, was reported to the State Department by Mrs. Imbrie, formerly of Boston.

Her message, however, gave no details, and the Associated Press story of his death at the hands of a mob was the first intimation that he had been the victim of violence.

State Department officials were somewhat puzzled by Mrs. Imbrie's message, and were awaiting details.

Tickling With Straw Results in Boy Becoming Deaf

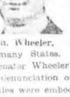
New York, July 19.—Hampton Brown, a Montgomery, N. Y., youth, was treated by doctors for a serious injury to his right ear, pierced when a friend tickled his ear with a stiff piece of straw.

Turning suddenly, Brown slapped his ear hard, driving the straw through the ear drum.

He lapsed into unconsciousness, and after he was revived the hearing of the ear was gone.

WHEELER RUNS ON 3D TICKET

Washington, July 19 (Universal).—Senator Burton Kendall Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana and native of Hudson, Mass., today accepted the nomination for Vice-President on the independent ticket with Senator Robert Marion La Follette of Wisconsin.



Sen. Wheeler.

Considerable pressure was brought to bear upon Senator Wheeler by old line Democrats to keep him from accepting. They make no secret of fear that on the stump he will do the Democratic ticket irreparable harm in many States.

Senator Wheeler's acceptance and his denunciation of the two old-line parties were embodied in a letter to William H. Johnston of the Machinists' union, heading a committee sent to him by the conference of La Follette leaders to receive his reply to the formal tender of the vice-presidential nomination.

The letter said:

"I have had no desire, as you know, to become a candidate for any office in the approaching election, but have decided that it is my duty to accept your call because it appears to me that by so doing I can best serve the highest interests of the American people.

ASSAILS DEMOCRATS.

"I regret exceedingly that the Democratic party in the recent national convention in New York so completely lost sight of the fundamental principles of democracy and ignored the great economic issues of the present hour. It has wantonly abandoned an opportunity for great public service that never before was so clearly within its reach and so certain to lead to success.

"While the farmers of the entire nation are facing bankruptcy, labor unemployed, business depressed and a large majority of our citizens suffering from sinister exploitation, the Republican and Democratic parties in convention ignored the call of the unorganized millions, who are the victims of the present economic disorders and chose leaders whose training, whose sympathies and whose social and political association are with the great predatory interests.

CANDIDATE OF "INTERESTS."

"Every Democratic leader in and out of Congress has proclaimed the Democratic party free from the taint of Wall street and has blamed with some degree of truth the financial interests centred there, but whose ramifications extend far beyond, for the corruption in the Republican administration and for the discrimin-

CHELSEA TO SELL GAS AT 16 CTS.

Mayor Quigley to Open Seven Stations in That City on Tuesday

Chelsea is going into the gasoline business, discouraging reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley announced today that on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock the city will open seven gasoline stations in convenient locations and will sell at 16 cents a gallon to all who wish to buy.

He is able to get all the gasoline he wants at 14 cents a gallon wholesale. The extra two cents will just cover the cost of distribution. The city will be making nothing on its operations.

In the commercial stations in Greater Boston gasoline is selling for from 20 to 22 cents a gallon, the prevailing price being 21 cents.

Mayor Quigley was asked about a report that one big gasoline concern, after offering to furnish him with gasoline in wholesale shipments, had retracted its offer.

PLENTY OF GASOLINE.

"It is true," he said. "And I have suggested to the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life that it investigate the circumstance.

"But I was not depending on any one concern. My chief difficulty is to decide which agency to patronize. I can get plenty of gasoline at 14 cents a gallon, buying as I shall buy.

"Tuesday is the day. Nine o'clock is the hour. We have already announced the places. I shall pour the first gallon for a customer myself. Chelsea is in the gasoline business with a vengeance, and in it until prices come down."

The stations will be at City Stables, Fourth street and Broadway, Broadway and Beacon street, Central Fire Headquarters, Broadway at Bellingham station and on Spencer avenue and Carey avenue.

5,000 GALLONS A DAY.

It is the idea of Shopkeeper Quigley that his bright young clerks can dispose of 5,000 gallons a day. That is the basis on which he is making his calculations. But if the people want more he will provide them with more.

As far as is possible Chelsea citizens will be given precedence, but no certificate of residence will be required unless the demand should be unexpectedly heavy.

It is the first time that a New England Mayor has started a crusade which recognizes that gasoline is one of the necessaries of life to thousands of persons in moderate circumstances.

Fenway Park, July 18.—The Red Sox went back at the Detroit Tigers in the second game of the twin bill here today in hopes of winning at least one game of the present series with Ty Cobb's hustling bunch of ball tossers.

The Detroit lads have been going big guns of late, while the Sox have received one set back after another. The score of the first game was 18 to 1.

In the first game, Todt, while rounding first base, was taken from the pastime with a twisted ankle which only means more painful suffering for the Sox.

$100,000 FIRE IN SO. BERLIN

Berlin, July 19.—Twenty-five farm houses in the village of South Berlin were threatened with destruction by a fire which started shortly before noon today in a barn on the Holder estate.

Farm and store buildings valued at $100,000 were burned to the ground an hour after the fire started. The South Berlin primary [illegible] badly damaged. [illegible] from Marlboro, Clinton, Northboro, Hudson and [illegible] South Berlin farmers [illegible] flames.

Because of the lack of any town water system, their work was hampered, and experienced fire fighters feared they would be unable to save any of the cottages in the track of the blaze.

It has been impossible to discover how the fire started. Volunteers formed a bucket brigade and saved the homes of Fred Fosdick and Dennis Murphy. Herman S. Holder discovered one of his barns ablaze and at first it was hoped the fire would be confined to a few buildings. As the flames spread, however, Holder became reckless in his desperate efforts to save his stock and farm machinery, and while he was rescuing some cattle from a hay barn he was struck on the head by a falling timber and injured seriously.

He lay unconscious on the floor of the barn for some minutes. He was finally dragged to safety by a farmhand.

ROUNDUP OF DRUNKS BEGUN IN BOSTON

A drive has been started by Boston police to clear the city streets of all intoxicated persons. As a result ninety-nine were put in the "cooler" in the past twenty-four hours.

Superintendent Michael H. Crowley has issued a general order calling upon division commanders to instruct their men to round up every drunk in sight.

Superintendent Crowley says the round-up is prompted by the dual purpose to protect decent people and also to safeguard the intoxicated persons from injury and robbery.

"In going about the city on week days and Sundays," said Superintendent Crowley in his order, "I have noticed a large number of drunks and have also noted that the police pay little attention to this class of offenders.

"The policemen on duty should have in mind at all times the protection of drunken men not only for the protection of persons under the influence of liquor but the danger of evil-minded persons holding up drunks and stealing their money and other valuables.

"If these drunks are taken off the streets and put in station houses they will not be the prey of 'bums' and others who follow them for the purpose of robbery and assault, and as a result the police department is obliged to carry an enormous number of cases of assaults, hold-ups, etc., which would not have occurred if intoxicated persons had been arrested."

The peak year for drunkenness arrests was in 1917 in Boston, with a total of 70,000. This figure dropped to 20,000 in 1919 and jumped to 45,000 in 1923.

59 GIRLS RUSH TO JOIN LIFE SAVING CORPS

Fifty-nine volunteers for the Boston American Volunteer Life Saving Corps responded to the first call for practice and tests at Magazine Beach, Cambridge.

Enthusiasm ran high among the volunteers and they entered into the work with a willingness that surprised even the Red Cross instructors. The number of volunteers in the corps is now more than 150 with more applications coming in by every mail.

SPECIAL PRACTICE TODAY.

Captain Jack Wallace, Red Cross chief instructor, singled out a bunch of likely-looking men and ordered a special practice session for today. In another day or two these men will all be ready to get measured for the regulation lifeguard suits that the Horace Partridge Company is providing free.

Wallace was assisted by Bob [illegible], popular Y. M. C. A. swimming instructor; Captain Arthur F. Sullivan of the Samoset Canoe Club life saving corps, which has joined the American corps in a body, and Edward R. Quiser and other Red Cross life savers.

Mrs. Mildred O'Connell, a South Boston mother who lives at No. 2 Webb Park, and who swims daily, rain or shine, at L Street Beach, has volunteered to serve in the Boston American life saving corps.

Although she has a baby only five months old, Mrs. O'Connell, who before her marriage was well known as Miss "Millie" Hill, has offered to give all her time to making herself expert in rescue work in the water and resuscitation. She is an excellent swimmer.

She is only one of fifteen girls who have enlisted in the volunteer corps. Several of these girls are already qualified Red Cross life savers.

TESTS AT NIGHT NOW.

Evening practice and tests have now been arranged for, and the working men will be enabled to work out with Captain Jack Wallace and the other Red Cross instructors. The first evening session will be held at Magazine Beach, Cambridge, next Tuesday.

Commodore H. Stone, director of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross, which is a leader in life-saving work among the Red Cross chapters of the country, has sent out letters urging the various Red Cross individual life savers and organized corps to affiliate with the Boston American's Red Cross life-saving corps for volunteer work.

The American today prints a partial list of the volunteers, numbering more than 150 men, women, girls and boys in Greater Boston.

LIST OF VOLUNTEERS.

Red Cross life savers: Edward H. Mulvey, South Boston; Olive Holland, Wollaston; William G. Endicott, Back Bay; John W. JUDGE SCORES DEFENDANT IN LIQUOR CASE

Bernard Mancini of Allston, defendant in a liquor case, drew the ire of Judge Thomas Connelly in Brighton court today when he attempted to impugn the character of a woman witness for the government.

The defendant charged that Mrs. May Blanchard, who complained to the police that Mancini was selling liquor to her brother, has herself partaken of liquor.

"I wish you to understand that this court will not allow defendants to cast aspersions on the character and reputations of persons testifying in cases here," Judge Connelly told Mancini, who was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction for keeping and exposing liquor.

He appealed and was held in $1,000 bonds.

Mrs. Blanchard denied the statements made by Mancini.

Italy Angered by Arrest of Officers on Drug Charge

Washington, July 19.—The Italian Embassy asked for an explanation from the State Department concerning the "arbitrary arrest" by Federal agents of the commander and seven officers of the liner Duilio in New York harborw on July 14.

The officers had been imprisoned under a charge of attempting to smuggle sixteen kilograms of narcotics into the United States, but were released after one night in jail.

The Embassy expressed the opinion that insufficient grounds existed for the arrest and that the Federal agents had shown excessive zeal.

atory legislation against the common people of America.

"What are the people to think when these same men in convention assembled select as the standard bearer of their party an attorney who represents those interests, who lives and associates with them and who typifies all that big business stands for, just as much and just as truly as does the Republican nominee.

"In this situation I find myself unable to support either the Republican candidates, who frankly admit their reactionary standpat policy, or the Democratic candidate who may claim in well-chosen phrases that he is a progressive, but whose training and constant association belie any such pretension."

"I am a Democrat, but not a Wall Street Democrat. I shall give my support and whatever influence I may possess to those candidates for office who have proved their fidelity to the interests of the people wherever they may be found, but I shall oppose every man on whatever ticket he may appear who bears the brand of the dollar sign."

Because of the restrictions imposed on him by his physician, Senator La Follette will not be able to conduct such a vigorous campaign as in previous years and he was anxious to enlist Wheeler as his running mate to bear the brunt of the fight.

YOUTH SHOT IN QUARREL OVER LADDER DYING

As a result of an argument over a ladder, one house painter is dying in Somerville Hospital today and another is sought by police on a charge of attempted murder.

Angelo Calindo, twenty-one years old, of No. 71 Walden street, North Cambridge, is the man who is dying.

He was shot at Bedford and South streets, Somerville, while he was on his way to work. He was accompanied by his uncle, Ferdinand Panariello, by whom he was employed.

The name of the man charged with the shooting has not been revealed. He formerly was a sailor and has been working as a painter in Cambridge and Somerville for six months.

The ex-sailor disliked young Calindo because he was "the boss' nephew," and the feeling cropped out when they had a dispute over a ladder. Panariello sustained his nephew. The other man threw down his brush, kicked over a pail of paint and left the job.

When he met uncle and nephew today he demanded the money due him. Panariello paid him. Then the man, it is alleged, drew an automatic and shot Calindo in the stomach.

Before Panariello could summon help, the man crossed the street, jumped a fence and vanished.

At Somerville Hospital physicians said there was little hope for Calindo.

GOES GUNNING FOR GIRL; FINED $100 IN COURT

William F. Coady of No. 54 Webster street, Hyde Park, has decided that advertising a proposed shooting up of one's "sweetheart" does not pay.

William started out from the home of his brother armed with a loaded pistol. He announced he was on his way to shoot his "sweetheart." His brother notified the police and they placed a guard on the girl's home. Then they started search for William.

When found Coady did not have the gun. He explained that after taking a walk he had changed his mind and hidden the pistol in a vacant lot. He led the officers there and the pistol was procured.

In District Court today Coady was fined $100.

Coady is a World War veteran. The "sweetheart" he threatened to shoot is a married woman with two children. She said Coady was simply a friend and visited at her home sometimes.

ALLEN AND CONNERY FILE THEIR PAPERS

President Frank G. Allen of the Senate today filed papers for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor.

Papers were also filed by William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, Democrat, for renomination for Congress from the Seventh District, and by State Senator William J. Francis of Charlestown for renomination from the Second Suffolk District.

Others to file were Charles D. Bradbury, Winthrop, Republican, for Senator from the Second Suffolk District; Charles E. Beatty, Boston, Republican, for Representative from the Nineteenth Suffolk District; James E. Sheridan, Republican, for Representative from the Twenty-fourth Suffolk District, and Edward G. Mercier, Cambridge, Democrat, for Representative from the Second Middlesex District.

CHARLESTOWN BOY, 8, HURLED BY TRUCK

Lester Furlong, 8 years old, No. 34 Farrin st., Charlestown, was seriously injured today when he darted in front of a truck on Bunker Hill road, opposite Mountain street, Charlestown.

The truck, driven by John Mahoney of No. 39 Cook street, Charlestown, was bound down Bunker Hill street toward Chelsea street.

The boy was thrown headfirst onto the street car tracks. He was rushed to the Haymarket Relief Hospital in the police ambulance where he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull, multiple contusions, and a broken foot. His name was placed on the danger list.

PRETTY GIRL KICKS MASHER IN SHINS

New York, July 19.—Kicked in the shins by a pretty girl on an L train, Samuel Kappner, supposed masher, was given additional cause for grief when Magistrate Golden held him in $300 on a contempt charge.

'TOOTS' MURRAY WANTED IN BOMB PLOT

Rhode Island Republicans at Rutland Say He Is on Auto Trip

Providence, July 19.—The staff of Attorney-General Carpenter was today seeking "Toots" Murray, named in affidavits which Governor Flynn assisted in obtaining, as having placed the gas bomb in the Rhode Island Senate chamber on June 19. It is desired to question him as to the statements made in the affidavits by Thomas Lally and Matthew J. McGovern.

Word was received today from Rutland, Mass., where the Rhode Island Republican Senators are staying at a hotel, that Murray, who had been with them, had not returned from an automobile drive on which he started late yesterday.

The Attorney Generals' department also is concerned in establishing the source of the bomb.

Chairman William C. Pelkey of the Republican State Committee, named in the affidavits as having directed the placing of the bomb, has issued a denial.

A special grand jury is to be summoned as soon as the evidence is assembled.

The affidavits alleged that "Ike" McCarthy, Joe Foley, Joe Cotter, Tom Lally, Matthew McGovern, "Toots" Murray and several others were employed by the Republican leaders and that these men set off the gas bomb in the Senate chamber with the purpose of "getting" Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin.

Governor Flynn today declared that he had conclusive evidence in connection with the plot and declared that the men guilty would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

CURLEY VETOES LONG DISTANCE BUS LINES

Mayor Curley has vetoed the orders adopted by the City Council in granting licenses for the operation of jitney busses to John F. G. Eichorn, from Copley Plaza Hotel to Worcester; Conway Tours, Inc., from Boston to Providence; A. L. Weiner, from Copley Plaza Hotel to Providence, and Frank J. Buckley, from this city to Providence.

The Mayor sent to the council along with his veto the following communication:

"These contemplated bus lines would enter into direct competition with the railroads, which now furnish an adequate service, and would undoubtedly only operate during the season of favorable weather, leaving the railroads to bear the burden at the time when operating expenses are the highest.

2,000 GERMAN FIRMS FEARED BANKRUPT

Berlin, July 19 (Universal).—More than 2,000 German firms are suspected of being in a state of bankruptcy, according to a survey by the German Wholesalers' Association.

These firms are under "legal business supervision," a special form of receivership, enabling owners to keep up their business, but giving them a moratorium for meeting their debts.

During the last few days an average of twenty-six firms a day took refuge from their difficulties in this sort of receivership. The record was reached one day this week when there were seventy-one applications.

TO PROBE FIRE IN WHICH 15 DIED

Kansas City, July 19.—A committee of four architects was named at the request of Mayor Albert I. Beach to investigate the construction of the two-story store and apartment building destroyed by an explosion and fire with a loss of 15 lives. Fire department officials charged the construction was faulty. Workers digging in the ruins found twenty ten gallon cans, some containing gasoline or kerosene. Louis Goldstein, owner of the building, said he was unable to account for the presence of the cans.

BARBED WIRE CUTS BLUEBERRY PICKERS

Marlboro, July 19.—Mrs. Margaret Cavanaugh, 67-year-old wife of James Cavanaugh of No. 90 Howland street, this city, is on the danger list at the Marlboro Hospital as a result of getting her leg caught in a barbed wire fence while picking blueberries.

The barbed wire caught in a vein in the woman's limb and she bled freely until rushed to the hospital in the police ambulance. Her condition is grave.

POLLY DAY'S HUSBAND ACCUSES HER AND LONDON FINANCIER

ROMANCE OF BROADWAY REVEALED

Beauty's Playwright Mate Demands $100,000 Heart Balm

Copyright, 1924, by Star Company

New York, July 19.—"That fellow Burlingame? I've never seen him in my life. I know him merely as the husband of Polly Day, that Broadway actress with whom my husband has been friendly for four years."

Mrs. Stanley W. Tanfield, wife of the London banker, said that with a casual shrug of her shoulders. She had just been told the latest news of the Rialto—that Burlingame, theatrical producer, had announced that he would sue her husband for $100,000.

Burlingame charges the financier with stealing the heart of lovely Polly.

Mrs. Tannfield had been found in a hotel in St. Louis—and she was not at all loath to speak of husbands and things.

OTHER WOMAN A BEAUTY.

The suit itself seemed merely to amuse her. She said:

"I have seen Polly Day. She is really most beautiful."

The wife of the London financier was more than generous in the praise of her rival, who Burlingame says, wrote many endearing letters to Tannfield. The London woman added:

"I can understand why men fall in love with Polly Day. I know four other men on her string besides my husband. And Stanley, he is so big-hearted!"

An understanding smile crossed her handsome features as she continued:

"Stanley, if approached properly, could be wheedled out of anything. So, I suppose, when Burlingame sues him Stanley will settle handsomely. That will quiet things, at least for a while."

WHERE IS POLLY?

While the financier's wife was talking in St. Louis Burlingame was saying a few words in a nearby city about the same suit. Tannfield was in seclusion in London, and Polly Day—but who knows just where Polly is now?

Mrs. Tannfield was told of those loving letters which Burlingame's attorney attached to the complaint in the theatrical man's suit for balm to ease his aching heart. Pretty Polly of Broadway is charged with writing this tender note to the sombre-faced financier:

". . . always you were in my dreams, always good and wonderful, fighting for the right, and me. . . . Well, this is the end of a wonderful dream. I will go back to everyday life, and I'm afraid I'll not dream very soon again."

That merely piqued Mrs. Tannfield's curiosity, but did not disturb her poise. She gazed out of the window and said reminiscently:

"I will say this—I have been to see Polly in her show on Broadway. Several times I tried to reach her, but I failed. I did reach her over the telephone. I told her—well, what is it that one says to a rival under such circumstances?"

Just for a moment she smiled, then with a nodding of her black-haired head, volunteered:

"Here's what I told Polly Day: If you don't stay away from my husband I will take action to compel you to do so. But I did that merely to scare her. I never really intended to sue, and don't now."

Mrs. Tannfield said she was sojourning in America merely for the health of her son. She is "returning to London and my husband" in the Fall. She added with spirit:

"I can scarcely wait until the time comes when I see him again."

When Burlingame was found he took time off from a play he was whipping into shape, and told a bit of his dreams, not all of which have come true. He said:

"When I married my wife I gave her the stage name, Polly Day. You've seen Polly, haven't you? Then you know how the name suits her quaint personality. I selected that name from my Colonial ancestors."

When he first thought Polly was dallying among the primroses, Burlingame became ill. He said:

"I've been ill for several years. And say, during that time I devoted a lot of time studying geneology, you bet.

"One of my pastimes was tracing the ancestry of Tannfield. That's a fact."

STUDIED HERALDRY.

While Polly was studying nature as it is seen along Broadway, and Tannfield was solving deep financial problems, Burlingame added a study of heraldry to his self-imposed curriculum.

One day he saw Tannfield pass him in a Rolls-Royce. Burlingame, his mind intent on his study, saw a coat of arms on that Rolls-Royce. His mind took in every detail of it. Later he had a chance to observe it minutely, while Polly was elsewhere.

The theatrical man got enthusiastic over that point. As though describing the beauty of a woman, he gave the details of Tannfield's coat of arms.

"Now, say, guess what I discovered? You'd never know, so I'll tell you. From that coat of arms I learned that Tannfield had an ancestor who had served as secretary of the British exchequer."

GOT A NEW CAR.

Then, as though confiding a State secret, the husband of Polly leaned over and said this of Tannfield's wife—the woman found in St. Louis by the New York American's correspondent:

"Mind, you, I don't say this as a fact, for I don't know it of my own knowledge. BUT—"

He hesitated dramatically, as his actors do in their big scenes, and finished:

"I am told that she got a new Rolls-Royce after she learned about this affair with Polly."

Burlingame said he has several letters which Polly, in a spirit of gaiety, wrote to Tannfield. He added:

"I have several letters Tannfield wrote her, too."

But Polly was no mere scribbler of prose, according to her husband. Polly would grow enthusiastic at times, and then the verse would gush forth—as it does when one falls in love.

VERSES ON "REAL LOVE."

One of these masterpieces, now in the hands of her husband, is entitled "Real Love." It is said by him to have been sent to Tannfield by Polly. The opening stanza reads:

"Oh, I have loved you four ways,
And I shall love you five.
For when the body turns to dust
The soul is more alive."

The remaining lines reveal Polly's soul with a vengeance.

Some of the letters Polly, it is said, wrote to the handsome financier, read:

"All the wonderful love words of yours—were they all lies? I can't believe you'd lie to me about love. Love to me is sacred."

WANTED LETTERS BURNED

Another one:

"——silly letters of mine! Burn them. And when you do, say to yourself, SHE REALLY, TRULY LOVED ME. And if you can pray, say a wee prayer that I get back some of my faith in men."

In this one Polly becomes philosophical:

"I thought that no one could lie about love and I find that the one I love best has lied to me. It is only the people we think wonderful who can hurt so deep. I did think you wonderful. To me you were all that man should be."

Attached to Burlinghame's complaint are telegrams from Ontario, Pittsburgh and Chicago. These indicate a transference of money and affection. All are signed "Tanny."

"Tanny" is keeping quiet these days in London. And as for Polly Day—but who has seen Polly recently?

PRETTY POLLY'S LOVE "WORTH $100,000"

Broadway butterfly, whose secrets are revealed in husband's suit against London financier.

POLLY DAY OF "GREAT WHITE WAY"

Radiant and reigning beauty of New York's famous Broadway whom many admired from afar, and still admire, including Gayle Burlingame, who married her. His admiration is still so strong that he demands $100,000 as a result of their estrangement, the man he intends to sue being Stanley Tannfield, a London financier. Did "Tanny" love "Polly" is the question in the case and letters are produced to decide the issue.

SOMERVILLE MAN MISSING TWO MONTHS

Lionel Hawkesworth, thirty-two years of age, father of three small children, and a baggage master on the Boston & Maine Railroad, has been missing from his home, No. 98 Woodstock street, West Somerville, since June 12.

He told his wife when he left the house that he was going to a new job as a steel worker.

BOSTON DEATH RATE FALLS WAY OFF

Figures Show That Total of 5,879 to Date Is 802 Behind Last Year

Boston may have her Winter snows, her Spring rains and slush and the damp east winds, but the Boston death rate is decreasing so rapidly that city health authorities today are fairly dancing with joy.

There were 802 fewer deaths so far this year than in 1923. In other words, there have been 5,879 deaths as compared with 6,681 for the same period last year.

Standing out of the figures is the interesting fact that only seven deaths among children from whooping cough resulted this year, as compared with 1[illegible] in 1923.

Diphtheria is the outstanding children's fatal disease. This, the health authorities explain, is due to the fact that so few parents have had the Schick treatment administered to their children.

'Women Too Smart as Bootleggers for Men'

Winona Lake, Ind., July 19 (A.P.)—"Some of the meanest bootleggers in America are women." Mrs. Elizabeth T. Stanley, of Indiana, declared before the conference of the World League against Alcoholism here, in announcing that a request is to be made of the government that a woman officer be added to the Federal prohibition enforcement staff at Washington so that activities of female bootleggers may be dealt with adequately.

BLAST WRECKS YACHT; FOUR MEN ESCAPE

When fire swept the eighty-foot cabin-cruiser yacht Kanawha, tied up at the Cottage Park Yacht Club, Winthrop, the lives of four men were imperiled, and more than a score of boats tied up at the club were threatened with destruction.

The fire was caused by a gasoline explosion that hurled Warren E. Titus of No. 206 Bartlett road, Winthrop, from the pilot house of the yacht to a float.

Almon E. Whittemore, president of the Winthrop Bank and owner of the yacht, sitting by the side of Titus, was hurled a considerable distance also and two men below decks had narrow escapes.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Winthrop firemen had a difficult task in extinguishing the fire on the yacht, the craft, valued at $20,000 being practically destroyed.

Theodore McCarthy and Paul Nichols, both of Winthrop, had just started an auxiliary motor operating the lighting system of the boat after filling the fuel tanks with 600 gallons of gasoline.

The hold of the yacht was filled with the fumes of the gasoline and the explosion came when the auxiliary engine back-fired.

JUMP FOR LIFE.

The two men below decks managed to make their way on deck with the sails of the champion Marconi class yacht Wanderer, also owned by Mr. Whittemore. They threw the sails overboard and jumped for their lives.

A score of boats were tied up at the yacht club and all these as well as the clubhouse itself were threatened by the fire which swept the craft. The firemen managed to confine the fire to the yacht. The boat had been entered in the Boston Yacht Club cruise which started this morning.

The yacht was formerly owned by Governor Baxter of Maine.

KICKING HORSE REVEALS DEAD MAN

Hudson, July 19.—The kicking of a horse in a barn led to the discovery of the dead body of John F. Blinkan, sixty-six years old, a recluse, in his shack on the outskirts of the town. He had been dead four days. The animal had not been fed during that time.

Coolidge on Cruise

Washington, July 19.—President Coolidge, accompanied by members of his family and a number of personal friends, left this afternoon on his usual week-end cruise down the Potomac aboard the Mayflower. The guests will include Frank W. Stearns of Boston and Dr. and Mrs. F. F. Hitchcock, former residents of Northampton, Mass., the Coolidge "home town."

By Her Divorce Suit Mrs. Fleischmann Loses the Prince

New York, July 19.—Julius Fleischmann turned over to Lord and Lady Wimborne his estate at Port Washington, L. I.

This means that they will occupy the estate during the visit of the Prince of Wales late in August.

Dolly Fleischmann, who divorced Julius in Paris a few weeks ago, has always had high social aspirations. Indeed, some say that the main trouble in the Fleischmann household came when Dolly found that, even with the Fleischmann millions, she could not break into society.

So if Dolly had only remained Mrs. Julius Fleischmann she would be hostess to the Prince when he is in America.

STATE CONTROL OF COLLEGE TO BE AIRED

Springfield, July 19.—"State House control" of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and all of the complaints made by former President Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, who scored the manner of shaping the college's policy when he resigned last Spring, will be taken up in Worcester on August [illegible] by a body of farmers and fruit growers.

This announcement was made today in a letter signed by E. M. Gilbert, master of the State Grange; John Chandler, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation; J. W. Haigis, president of the Massachusetts Agricultural Association; R. L. Davenport, president of the Massachusetts Fruit Growers' Association; A. P. Wyman, president of the Boston Market Gardener's Association, and S. W. Sabine, president of the Nashoba Fruit Growers' Association.

The letter in part declares that "having read the letter of resignation of President Butterfield we believe the time has come when those who desire to engage in practical agriculture in Massachusetts should express their desire as to their administration and future policies."

At the time of his resignation President Butterfield scored the so-called "state house control" of the college and said he was going around with "his hands tied by Beacon Hill."

New Island Forms

Moscow, July 19.—It is reported that a new island has formed at the entrance to the sea of Azov as a result of the recent earthquake.

GONE 11 YEARS, SUES WIFE FOR DESERTION

Attorney Daniel Gallagher, who represents Mrs. Abbie Schofield of Halifax, declares that Ernest Schofield, also known as Frank Schofield, played an "Enoch Arden" role when he returned after an absence of eleven years, following the desertion of his wife and two daughters, Dorothy and Edith, at North Raynham in 1913.

Mrs. Schofield started a search for her missing husband when he left home after packing a suitcase. The hunt continued through the many years he has been away.

When Schofield finally returned he surprised his family and friends when he brought suit for divorce, alleging that his wife had deserted him.

In East Cambridge Probate Court today Mrs. Schofield was favored with an order restraining Schofield from interfering with her liberty and an attachment of $5,000 was allowed on the husband's property in Mrs. Schofield's separate support suit.

Schofield now operates a farm in Weston.

'PUSSYFOOT' TO CARRY ON 'DRY' WAR IN EGYPT

Winona Lake, Ind., July 19 (A.P.) William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, in an address today at the session of the World League Against Alcoholism, announced he would leave in a week to establish headquarters in Cairo, Egypt.

Mr. Johnson discussed prospects for prohibition in non-Christian lands.

"There are in the world," he said, "approximately 600,000,000 people who have been taught total abstinence as a religious principle for 1,200 years. When America went dry these oriental people were stirred to their depths.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson.

"They said that America, the greatest power in the world, has not only accepted the oriental teachings as to drink, but has actually incorporated them into her fundamental law.

"And so there are springing up in the Orient all sorts of activities and organizations, each looking to the extension of the Christian proposals for world-wide prohibition. Already in India more than 300 prohibition societies have been formed.

"Every newspaper in India owned by an Indian, is demanding prohibition."

$2,500 MAY BE MADE INTO $1,250,000

Probe of Plan Giving Bonds for Stock Elicits Ex-Newsboy's Statement

New York, July 19.—An investment of $2,500 by Charles H. Greenhaus, once a newsboy, may grow to a fortune of $1,250,000 through the fluctuations of Middle States Oil stock in the past few months and because he was not a "fool," he told Supreme Court Justice Burr.

Middle States Oil stock once was quoted at 21. Now it is at 1.6 on the exchange, and unsecured. The company also has outstanding gold bonds, paying seven per cent interest, secured.

Greenhaus aroused the legal curiosity of the New York Attorney General when he circularized 200,000 holders of the stock, offering to exchange the bonds for their stock at a premium. The Attorney-General, through Wilbur W. Chambers, then applied for an injunction to stop the exchanges which move was contested by Greenhaus.

Greenhaus testified that the situation whereby he could exchange secured bonds for unsecured stock at a profit was of the Middle States Oil Corporation's own making.

"I just saw the situation," he stated, "saw the huge profits that lay in it, and decided I would be a fool if I didn't take advantage of it. Furthermore, I am not only doing myself a service, I am making myself a public benefactor by giving the public something more valuable for something of less worth."

EAST BOSTON GETS NEW PLAYGROUND

The question of a location for a playground in East Boston, which has been hanging fire for over a year, has finally been decided by Mayor Curley when he approved an order of the street commissioners for the taking of 147,438 square feet of land, at East Eagle, Glendon and Condor streets, the property of the John F. Coleman Company, at the assessed valuation of $63,200.

John F. Coleman is a member of the firm of Coleman Brothers, who hold the ten year contract with the city for the disposal of garbage.

Remain Thin and Be President, Says U. S. Senator

New York, July 19.—"If you would be President of the United States don't get fat."

United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York gave this advice to 5,000 boy scouts in camp on Bear Mountain. "Keep your waistline down," he told the scouts, "for the day of the stateman with the [illegible] girdle is gone.

"The reason is simple," he continued. "The public now knows that men are not born fat and that obesity is due to being too indifferent to personal welfare to keep the waistline down. Logically, voters think that if a man be too lazy to care for his own health, he will be too lazy to care for the public business. So if you would roll up a big vote, keep down your waistline."

TENTH OF CENT INCREASE IN LIVING COST

Figures on the cost of living compiled by the Commission on the Necessaries of Life show a jump of 1-10 of 1 per cent. for June.

An increase of about ½ of 1 per cent. in the price of food and a slight upward tendency in the cost of fuel and light was responsible for the higher figure.

The greatest individual change was in the price of potatoes, due to the change from the old to the new crop.

In clothing there was a decrease of about 9-10 of 1 per cent. No change in the housing conditions occurred.

A table showing a comparison of the May and June figures follows, based on the average retail price of 100 in 1923.

Elements	May	June
Food	136.4	137.1
Clothing	183.3	181.6
Shelter	168.0	168.0

TRUCK HIT BY BUS PLUNGES 40 FEET

Hurled Over Saugus Embankment by Crash, Driver Is Dying

When a jitney bus crashed into the rear of an auto truck in the Newburyport turnpike, Saugus, today, Otto Loux of No. 219 West Sixth street, South Boston, who was cranking the truck, received fatal injuries.

Loux, driving a truck loaded with bananas to Dover, N. H., had engine trouble when near the Melrose line. He repaired the trouble and was cranking the machine when a Hart jitney bus operating between Malden and Cliftondale square crashed into the truck.

The force of the collision drove the truck a distance of forty feet over an embankment. Loux was carried with the machine and buried in the wreckage when the truck overturned.

Charles N. Sowle, No. 49 Ryder avenue, Melrose, operator of the jitney bus, and the three passengers extricated the injured man from the wreckage. He was taken to the Lynn hospital, where he was found to be suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and injuries to his spine, arms and legs.

MAN KILLS SELF WITH BORROWED GUN

Borrowing a revolver from his employer to "shoot a cat," Eben Upton, forty-nine, went to the piazza of his home at No. 7 Oak street, Peabody, and fired a bullet into his temple. He died an hour later at the Thomas Hospital.

According to the police, Upton had been suffering from nervous trouble.

The theft occurred nearly two weeks ago. Since the announcement of the robbery no apparent move has been made to unearth the jewel thieves, but today it was disclosed that the Perrys had engaged [illegible] detectives who have been working in the Perry household [illegible] after the robbery was committed.

The jewels were taken by someone who apparently knew the layout of the Perry home and who entered without the usual "break." For that reason the detectives have been working on the inside rather than the out[side].

[illegible] of Mrs. Perry's most valuable jewels were among those taken. They included diamonds, rubies and pearls. The fact that Mrs. Perry had not taken her most valuable and famous jewels to her Newport home saved the social leader from greater loss.

FRENCH LAUNCH NEW GIANT SUBMARINE

Cherbourg, France, July 19.—The new first-class French submarine, Requin, the first of six to be laid down, was launched today. The new submarine is 65 meters long and 7.30 meters in beam, and is armed with one 100-millimeter gun and 8 torpedo tubes. It is expected she will be able to make 16 knots on the surface with two 1,500-horsepower engines and 9 knots when submerged. Her crew consists of four officers and 41 men.

LOEB ADMITS HE KILLED FRANKS

Confesses Again After Learning He and Leopold Must Suffer Alike

Chicago, July 19.—Richard Loeb, awaiting trial with Nathan Leopold on charges of kidnaping and slaying Robert Franks, has admitted that it was he who actually struck the blow killing their victim, says the Chicago Herald and Examiner today.

The blow was struck with a chisel wrapped with tape and Leopold drove the automobile in which they were riding at the time.

The youths, millionaires' sons and university graduate students, in their first confession told the same story except that each accused the other of striking the fatal blow. Loeb, the newspaper says, made the additional confession after learning the penalty may be the same for both regardless of which was the actual slayer.

A proposal by a Chicago newspaper to radiocast the proceedings has brought over 4,000 replies to a referendum submitted on the question by the newspapers to its readers. Three hundred more persons expressed opposition to the idea than the number favoring it.

A resolution condemning the attempt was passed at the Desplaines Methodist camp meeting, in session near here.

Attorneys for the defence said they would oppose any such action as prejudicial.

GERMAN LOAN INVESTORS TO COME FIRST

Priority on All Resources in Case That Country Defaults

London, July 19 (A.P.).—The committee of the inter-allied conference in charge of reparations in the event of Grmany's default under the Dawes scheme today unanimously agreed to insure investors in the loan to Germany of priority on all German resources in the event of Germany's default.

The committee unanimously agreed to preserve all the rights enjoyed by the nations which signed the Versailles Treaty. These two issues stand in the way of the negotiations of the conference yesterday and the agreement on them, it is believd, will xpedite the work of achieving a general agreement on the Dawes plan.

FARMERS TO BE FORD'S GUESTS AT SUDBURY

Old-Fashioned Picnic Will Be Held at Wayside Inn Next Month

Sudbury, July 19.—Farmers of Middlesex County and their families will have a "high old time" at Wayside Inn with Henry Ford on August 13, when he greets his guests at a "get-acquainted" party.

An old-time farmers' picnic, with a horseshoe-pitching tournament, tug-of-war, baseball game and "meetin'-up" parties for the ladies, will be the features of the gala day.

In the afternoon the gathering will be addressed by Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, State Commissioner of Agriculture, and President Edward N. Lewis of Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Professional actors will appear in a series of tableaux reminiscent of the days when Wayside Inn was the stopping place for noted travelers on the Boston highway.

The Skeleton Rattles on Mr. Hill

In the old days of trick bicycle riding on high wheels, H. P. Hill, who now writes pieces for the newspapers in the interest of "In Bamville," at the Tremont, was a member of the famous Martell Family, serving both as a fancy rider and as the clown who took the hard knocks. He says he can show scars to prove it.

Another Chance for Bathing Girls

A bathing girl revue is the next thing on the calendar at the Fenway Theatre, and girls who look well in bathing costumes—and who can sing a bit—should report at the Fenway at 10:30 next Wednesday morning for a try-out. It means a week's engagement for real salaries. Bring your bathing suit.

QUITS SCHOOL TO TAKE ON DRAMA

Ralph Bunker, Once Harvard Instructor, Now in Movies

Here's another college instructor who deserted the classroom for the stage. Ralph Bunker, who plays the role of Malcolm Fraser, the "poet in goggles," in "Another Scandal," opening at the Fenway today, had the distinction of being the youngest member of the Harvard faculty.

After graduating from Harvard he was elected instructor in public speaking and interpretation of dramatic literature. He filled this position for three years before going on the professional stage and playing the leading role in Cosmo Hamilton's successful play, "The Blindness of Virtue."

Then followed leads in successive New York productions: "Omar the Tentmaker" with Guy Bates Post, comedy lead in "Good Gracious, Annabelle"; stardom on tour in "The Very Idea"; leads in the Al Woods farces, "Ladies' Night," "Girl in the Limousine," etc., and last season comedy lead in the delightful Molnar comedy, "Fashions for Men," in which O. P. Heggie starred. This autumn he is to portray the comedy lead in Cosmo Hamilton's new play, "Society."

COWBOY NOW IN SONG AND COMEDY

A real drugstore cowboy is Joe Barrett, one of the singing comedians in Frederick Clark's "Let's Go" at the Gayety Theatre next week. Before going on the stage, Barrett lived in Texas, and for several years he was employed on a cattle ranch. His duty was to take charge of the pharmaceutical supplies and to give first aid when the scores of cowboys were on duty with the herds. In his spare time he rode the range with the other cowboys.

Not all ranch owners take these precautions for the health and well being of their men. But this employer was a former cavalry officer and believed in having a medical corps on duty with the riders. So Barrett became the medical corps and he was known to his fellow cowboys as the drugstore cowboy.

But lest anyone think that Barrett is the type of cowboy associated with the term 'drugstore cowboy,' be it known that he can ride the wildest broncho and can throw a rope with the cleverest of cattlemen.

Air Mail Helps Meighan in Difficult Problem

The advantages of the fast air mail service between New York and California, especially as they apply to the motion picture industry, were strikingly illustrated when Thomas Meighan mailed still photographs from his latest picture, "The Alaskan," to Adolph Zukor. Mr. Meighan wanted Mr. Zukor's advice on a certain scene in the picture. It was impossible to describe the scene either by letter or telegram, and mailing of the stills through the usual channels would take too long. Accordingly he sent a special messenger to San Francisco with still photographs of the scene and the photographs were placed aboard the mail plane leaving shortly afterward for New York. Mr. Zukor had the stills before him the next day, and was able to wire his advice immediately.

"BOZO" TO RETURN

"Bozo" Snyder, undisputed champion among burlesque comedians, will come to Boston in another week to appear in a new production of Barney Gerard's "Follies of the Day." This unique burlesque will open at Waldron's Casino next Saturday.

The new "Follies of the Day" introduces all of the best features of musical revue and dancing shows. Naturally the great share of the comedy honors fall to "Bozo," the pantomime fun maker.

Movie Notes

Margaretta Tuttle, the novelist, is to appear in a motion picture for the first time. A few days ago she was standing on a set where Cecil B. DeMille was filming her story, "Feet of Clay," and her conversation with the players fitted so well into the continuity that he shot the scene before she knew what had happened.

* * *

Richard Lewis has ministered to motion picture actors and actresses for fifteen years. During that time he has played roles of cardinals, priests and missionaries. Cinematically speaking, he has married hundreds of stars. He knows all the marriage services by heart.

* * *

Earl Hurd, well known producer of some of the cleverest animated cartoon work on the motion picture screen, is to produce a series of six novelty reels to be released by Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., under the series name of "Pen and Ink Vaudeville." The first release, which will reach the screen in early September, is "Boneyard Blues."

GAYETY—"Let's Go." The new burlesque, which means a concoction of melody, nonsense and dancing specialties, presenting Manny King, a Yiddish comedian; Florence Kane, Mae Janese, Nan Palon and a score of sprightly damsels, including the so-called four dancing mad caps, who make novel entertainment in their own way. Another feature is James C. Morton and family.

MOVIE NEWS RUSHED BY AIR POST

The advantages of the fast air mail service between the East and California, especially as they apply to the motion picture industry, were strikingly illustrated when Thomas Meighan mailed still photographs from his atest picture, "The Alaskan," to Adolph Zuker. Mr. Meighan wanted my Zuker's advice on a certain scene in the picture. It was impossible to describe the scene either by letter or telegram, and mailing of the stills through the usual channels would take too long. Mr. Zukor had the stills before him the next day, and was able to fire his advice immediately.

TRAFFIC CONGESTED ON SOUTH SHORE

Residents of the South Shore are making vigorous complaint over the fact that the authorities refuse to open Mill street, Neponset, through the old Victory plant. This is held responsible for a traffic congestion that is rapidly becoming serious.

The closing of the Neponset bridge has added to the difficulties of the situation.

It has been suggested to the authorities that the heavy traffic through Quincy square could be eliminated by having South Shore traffic go out Neponset avenue to Mill street, through Victory Plant to Squantum and Wollaston boulevard to the south part of Quincy.

MARAVISTA DRAWS MANY VISTORS

One of the most popular summer resort developments this season is that of Maravista-By-The-Sea which under the supervision of the Bay State Realty Exchange, No. 101 Tremont street, Boston, is fast coming to the front.

This attractive development which adjoins famous Falmouth Heights on Cape Cod is practically surrounded by water which makes it one of the coolest spots in New England. Intense hot weather is escaped by the vacationist who sojourns here for the cool sea breezes bring with them that comfort which is denied inland points.

Maravista-By-The-Sea has a white sandy stoneless beach which is most ideal for bathing. The water here averages 20 degrees higher than elsewhere on the New England seaboard and lacks the dangerous undertow which proves fatal to so many each year.

Many attractive homes have been completed and are being occupied this summer. The sale of lots at Maravista-By-The-Sea has been most satisfactory for the year with a most healthy demand continuing at this time.

NORUMBEGA PARK

All this week the Red, White and Blue Kiddies, government proteges from the Panama Canal Zone, are to compete in swimming contests at Norumbega Park. A specially constructed float has been built which is located on the Charles River, outside the park, just below the Norumbega canoe sheds. The children range from 5 to 14 years of age and will compete with any boys and girls who wish to enter the contests.

ROBERTS IS OUT

Theodore Roberts, who was cast for a featured role in Cecil B. De Mille's current production for Paramount, "Feet of Clay," will not appear in the picture. Since Mr. Roberts' recovery from his serious illness he had been anxiously awaiting Mr. DeMille's call to report for work at the studio. The latter called upon Mr. Roberts at his home Wednesday and both decided it would be better for him to rest another month before returning to the strenuous exactions of studio work.

NEGRO SONGS SHOW MANY CHANGES

Old Time Songs Give Way to Newer Jazz Tunes

"Oh, won't you bring back those olden love days,
Those golden hey-days of long ago."

Thus runs an old and well-remembered ballad. An unusual exception to this, however, is Sissle and Blake's "In Bamville," at the Tremont Theatre. This musical frolic runs the gamut of "evolution," from old time darkey chants to latter day tunes of the popular order. But now-a-days, negro melodists are rare.

The sight of an old-time darkey with his grizzled wool done up in plaits, strumming a homemade banjo and humming "Rattler," "Turkey in the Straw" or crooning some other old negro folk song or melody with the weird accompaniment, is a decided rarity, even in the South.

Like other old-time institutions, the type is rapidly passing, and there are but comparatively few left as reminders of the ante-bellum days in Kentucky and the South.

DAVIES FILM HAS MUSIC FEATURE

"Janice Meredith" to Have Music of Rare Quality

The Cosmopolitan Corporation has engaged Deems Taylor to write the musical score of "Janice Meredith," the new motion picture in which Marion Davies is starring.

Mr. Taylor is recognized as one of America's foremost composers, his works including symphonies and light operas as well as incidental music to a number of elaborate theatrical productions. Probably his best known composition is his symphonic suite, "Through the Looking Glass," which has been featured by such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic, New York Symphony and the Philadelphia.

He won special renown this season as the composer of the pantomime in the production of "The Beggar on Horseback," at the Broadhurst Theatre. He has written incidental music to such plays as "Fashion," produced at the Provincetown Playhouse, and "Liliom," the Theatre Guild's success of two seasons ago.

"Janice Meredith" is a picturization of Paul Leicester Ford's novel of the American Revolution. E. Mason Hopper is directing the production from Lillie Hayward's scenario.

Tyrone Power to Play Lord Cornwallis in Film

Tyrone Power has been engaged by Cosmopolitan Corporation for the part of Lord Cornwallis in "Janice Meredith," the forthcoming picturization of Paul Leicester Ford's novel, in which Marion Davies is to be presented.

Mr. Power, who has won extensive renown on the speaking stage, replaces Montague Love in the part. The latter had already been engaged, and it was learned that a previous contract with Oliver Morosco in "The Schemers" prevented him from playing the role of the British general in "Janice Meredith." Mr. Power was thereupon hastily summoned to appear as Cornwallis.

TEN KILOWATTS RADIATED AT 106 METERS

By L. A. TAYLOR

Radio Engineer, General Electric Co

On the flats of the Mohawk River at Schenectady there is a small building on each side of which is a heavily guyed wood mast. A fan shaped arrangement of wires is held between the two poles.

This building, owned by the General Electric Company, contains the experimental apparatus used in broadcasting the programs of WGY at short wave lengths for experimental purposes and for rebroadcasting by distant stations.

Upon entering the building one finds six kenotron tubes which change the high voltage alternating current to direct current to be used by the high power oscillator. Next to the bank of tubes is the apparatus to smooth out the direct current as it comes from the kenotrons.

At one end of the room is located the vacuum tube generators of the high frequency oscillations and the power tube which controls the oscillator. Both of these tubes are water cooled.

HUGE CONDENSER

A one turn coil of heavy copper ribbon acts as a coupling coil between the oscillator and antenna system. The antenna is tuned with a gigantic variable air condenser about five feet high with plates two feet in diameter.

The operation is very interesting. With the tremendous frequency of 3,000,000 cycles per second and about 10,000 watts of radiated power the electrical field in and near the building induces power in all pieces of metal and even in human beings. A coal stove which was used to heat the building during the winter could not be touched without drawing a heavy arc an inch or so in length. If by accident the arc was to the hand direct, a severe burn but no shock was received.

By touching the terminals of a 100 watt electric lamp two persons could light the bulb to full brilliancy when standing near the oscillator—even though neither had any electrical connection to the high frequency circuit.

FEET ARE BURNED.

It is advisable not to stand on ground connections, if there are nails in your shoes. Arcs from the ground connection to the nails and to the feet produce very unpleasant burns. Even the stand for receiver picks up so much energy that an electric lamp can be lighted from the phone connections.

Ordinarily there is little to be heard in the room except the hum of the generators and the murmur from the modulation reactors. Occasionally a corona discharge will start from a part of the oscillating circuit—reaching out into the air four or five inches and making an exceptionally good loud speaker. It is rather amusing to hear a selection from the WGY orchestra coming from a blue and purple discharge as it dances up and down a connection in the circuit. There are other times when an arc will jump a foot or more from one part of the circuit to another and shout the program with unusual clearness.

It is only within the last year that the question of which is the most efficient wavelength for broadcasting has arisen. In order to obtain accurate data on that question and other transmission problems, the General Electric Company is building a large experimental station about 9 miles from Schenectady. It is hoped that much will be learned which will improve transmission and enable broadcasting to be on a more reliable foundation.

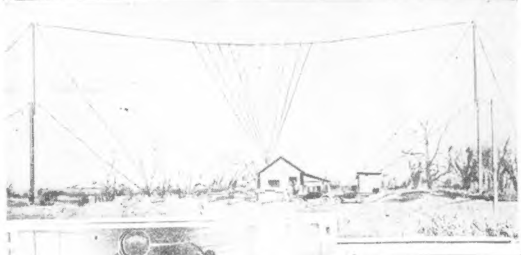
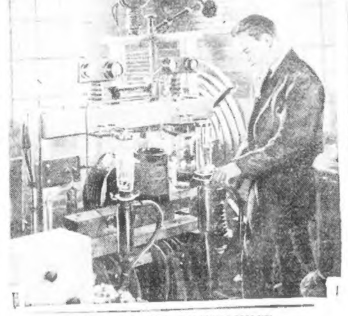
WHERE WGY 100-METRE STARTS





LOW WAVE EQUIPMENT

Up to 10,000 watts are radiated from the low-wave laboratory at WYG, in Schenectady, as shown above. This is ten times more than WEAF and 100 times more than any Boston station. Note the fan type antenna which is used instead of the single tube vertical antenna used at KDKA'S low wave station. The inside view shows two of the high-power water-cooled tubes.

Radio Queries

Have built superflex, but cannot get distant stations and set works minus the crystal. Am sending diagram.

RADIO PHAN.

Insufficient plate battery, incorrect adjustment of the rheostat, poor crystal, insufficient number of turns on primary of second unit, or open in crystal circuit may be the cause of this.

I am thinking about building a 100-meter set. Can you tell me the proper way to wire it, as I have never built a set? J. S.

Pretty difficult to tell you how to build it if you know nothing about building sets. Better get someone who has done it to show you how.

You probably remember me as the guy who couldn't get the Super to work. I get the high wave stations now, but nothing comes in clear. I have built Supers for friends and the clearness of tone surprised us, but this one stumps me. I have decided to try diamond weave coils. Can you tell me how to make them? Where can I get the no-loss condensers advertised in your paper and are they O. K. for the Super? Is KDKA, WCAP, WGY and WEAF considered good for this time of year on the loud speaker? What will cause a Pingree set to tune broad? E. R. F.

1—Drive seventeen nails, equally spaced, around the rim of a round piece of wood 1½ inch in diameter. Wind wire, eight turns primary and sixty turns secondary, around these nails, passing over two and under two each time. Cover with enough wax or paint to enable coil to hold shape when nails are removed. The "Nat-Loss" condenser is sold by various dealers advertising in the American. They are O. K. for the Super. Your record is good. Resistance in the antenna circuit may explain broad tuning.

RAILS LEADERS IN NEW YORK TRADING

Railroads were leaders in weekend New York trading. Twenty rails sold at new 1924 tops. Coppers were strong.

Industrials gathered additional momentum on the side of rising prices in the first hour, under the lead of standard stocks. General Electric moved into new high ground for the year at 247, while Can gained 1½ to 117¾ and Baldwin more than a point to 116½.

The equipment situation is looking better. Last week 38 locomotive orders were placed, largest in several months. There is also moderate improvement reported for freight and tank cars. Prediction of President Vauclain that Baldwin will be operating 100 per cent. capacity by the first of next year appears likely to be fulfilled.

There has been good buying of Reading, and no small amount of it has been by houses with Philadelphia affiliations. One reason for buying is said to be due to fact Reading's coal properties have been an expense rather than a profit. For this reason the road should benefit from segregation.

Reading has never derived a dollar of income from its coal properties, and gets rid of a $31,000,000 bond liability. It will also have use of about $27,000,000 cash and securities ultimately to be paid by former coal subsidiary.

Coppers Show Renewed Strength in Boston

Copper showed renewed strength in week-end trading on the Boston Stock Exchange and were very active.

Calumet & Hecla started unchanged, then rose fractionally. Some of the red metals sold off at times on profit-taking, a natural outcome of recent advances.

Island Creek Coal lifted a point. Shoe and Boston & Maine rose fractionally.

The current month will by all odds prove to be the best in the history of Island Creek Coal Co. from the production standpoint. Up to the fifteenth of July the company produced 204,000 tons of coal. In the last seven working days it averaged 355 cars of coal a day, or at the rate of 480,000 tons for a month. Unless something untoward should occur, total production for July should approach the 450,000-ton mark.

Considering general conditions in the coal industry, Island Creek is making phenomenal progress. The company is producing a record-breaking amount of coal at the very moment that a large proportion of the mines of the country are shut down and coal prices are lower than at any time in the last 25 years. Island Creek is able to do this only because of its low costs.

By selling at 117 Island Creek common was practically at its record high price and is up 21½ points from the 1924 low.

Boston Notes

WEST VIRGINIA Pulp & Paper has awarded contract to Morton C. Tuttle Co., Boston, for extensive additions to its plant at Covington, Va.

MICHIGAN copper production is 48 per cent. of pre-war average.

CALUMET & HECLA properties are on a five-day week basis.

AT CURRENT rate of copper production in United States Michigan district is producing approximately only 8 per cent. of total monthly domestic output of 133,000,000 pounds.

INSTALLATION of electric pumps in No. 5 Tamarack shaft Calumet & Hecla Consolidated is proceeding.

COPPER RANGE will show a small increase in production in July due to larger underground forces.

CANADIAN CANNERS, Ltd., which control 98 per cent. of canneries in Canada, reports much better Spring pack than last year and favorable outlook for balance of year, except for corn.

SOUTH END MAN SHOT IN HOME BY INTRUDER

While sleeping in bed at his home, early today, Louis Moskowitz, thirty-eight years old, of No. 135 West Canton street, South End, was shot through the leg by a mysterious intruder who was admitted to the bedroom by Moskowitz' wife.

Moskowitz, at the City Hospital tells a story that differs considerably from that told by his wife, who was also questioned by the police.

The police from the East Dedham street station were summoned to the home by the wife, who ran through the street tearing her hair and calling for help. They found the wounded man still in bed and had him removed to the hospital at once.

Moskowitz told the police that he was sound asleep when he was awakened by the sound of a shot. At the same time he felt the sting of the bullet in his leg. He declared he knew nothing about the intruder who was in his room, save that he wore a gray suit.

Mrs. Moskowitz, who does not sleep in the same room with her husband, said she was awakened by a rap on the door. She answered the knock and admitted a strange man who said he wanted to talk to her husband on important business.

The wife said she admitted the stranger to her husband's room and that she distinctly heard the men talking for several minutes before the shot was fired. Then the stranger dashed past her and out of the house and after seeing her husband, lying in bed, injured, she ran for the police.

Moskowitz's condition is not serious.

FORMER PATROLMAN GETS $2,079 BACK PAY

Former Patrolman Thomas J. Conlon of the Worcester police department will receive from that city the sum of $2,079 in payment for all services rendered to the city as a police officer, under an agreement reached between the Civil Service commissioners and counsel for Conlon.

Conlon was appointed to the force in May, 1923. The Civil Service Commission ordered his appointment cancelled after it is alleged he failed to answer truthfully some questions regarding his court record. He continued to work and later sued the city for back pay.

MILL OWNER SCORES CHILD LABOR LAW

Fitchburg, July 19.—Alvan T. Simonds, head of the Simonds Saw and Steel Company, flayed the State law which prohibits over-working women or children, in a review of business conditions.

Mr. Simonds stated, "The child labor law is a freak piece of legislation that does nobody good and does harm to many, even to those whom it is supposed to help.

"The cotton industry is at its present low level, simply because of the restricted hours for women and the restrictions on age limit for children. Many of them are better off working than studying; they are progressing more in many cases. The law should be struck off the books of the State.

'DEATH RAY' MAN ARRIVES IN U. S. FOR VISIT

New York, July 19.—Zealously guarding the secret of his invention known internationally as the "death ray," H. Grindell Matthews, English inventor, arrived today for a short visit in this country.

He denied he had come to the United States to interest the government or anyone else in his invention.

His first statement upon arrival was that the use of the term "death ray" for his device was a misnomer. He said it was in reality an "electric beam" and that he had never called it anything else.

He said the ray could, if "properly developed," destroy a city like New York. He also said it could "paralyze" whole armies.

"At present," he said, "my ray operates upon half a kilowatt. I am now developing a machine in England that will operate on 50 kilowatts. In the course of six or eight months I shall so perfect my invention that I will have a ray that could work great destruction."

He asserted that four or five nations had offered large sums for the invention, but that upon its perfection it would be offered to Great Britain and no other nation. He denied he took a trip to France to interest the French government in it.

The inventor said his claim that the ray could paralyze armies was based upon experiments in which it "killed one mouse and four rats."

U. S. DELEGATES IN TILT AT CONGRESS

Mexico City, July 19.—At the penultimate session of the Inter-American Congress on Electrical Communication the American delegates refused to approve a suggestion that the next convention be held at Rio Janeiro. The refusal of the American delegates gave rise to rumors that they will not sign the Inter-American convention at the last session which is called for Monday.

TAXI MAN BEATS UP BANDIT

Foils Attack in South End With Auto Crank; Thug Is Arrested

With an auto crank as his only weapon, a plucky taxi driver beat off an armed bandit who attempted to hold him up in his own cab near the Homeopathic Hospital today.

Harry Simons.

Later, assisted by another chauffeur, he chased the footpad into a house on East Newton street and guarded this until the police arrived.

Harry Simons, the taxi man, has his stand outside the Hotel Commodore at Broadway and Tremont street in the South End.

KNOCKED MAN DOWN.

As he lounged in his car he was approached by a powerfully built young man who asked to be driven to West [illegible] and [illegible] streets.

Set down not far from the Homeopathic Hospital, the fare reached into his pockets and pulled forth a revolver.

"I'll take bills, silver or what have you," he told Simons, who without waiting for more swung heartily with the crank of his machine and knocked the bandit down. The latter fired one shot as he lay on the ground. Then he jumped up and ran.

FOUND ON ROOF.

A block away another chauffeur joined Simons in the pursuit. On East Newton street the fugitive bandit darted into a doorway. Simons remained on guard outside the door while his friend went to a police station and returned with Sergeant Gale and Patrolman Kelley.

On the roof of the house a man was found hiding behind a chimney. He was identified as the highwayman. He had no gun, and a search of adjacent roofs failed to reveal any.

At the East Dedham street station the man arrested was charged with attempted highway robbery. He said he was Earle W. Ames, twenty-seven years old, of No. 46 Ashford street, Allston. He is married.

RAIN HELPS TO STAY FIRES IN MONTANA

Missoula, Mont., July 19.—Cloudy weather, with rain in some places and cessation of high winds, enabled fire-fighters to start work establishing control lines around fires in national forests of western Montana and northern Idaho.

While most of the blazes which cover more than 1,000 acres were still burning, few of these were spreading. Heavy rain in the Clearwater forest checked fires there.

AUTO HUNT FOR YOUNG 'ELOPERS'

North End Girl, 15, and Youth Are Believed to Have Run Away to Providence

Convinced that pretty Michelena Carvino, aged fifteen, of No. 16 Foster street, North End, has eloped to Providence with Lalo Russo, aged eighteen, of Roxbury, the girl's father and brother notified police of this city and Providence to be on the lookout for the couple.

They hired an automobile of a neighbor to [illegible] the [illegible]. Michelena, whose mother is dead, worked in [illegible] candy factory. She told girl chums she loved Lalo Russo and that he had asked her to marry him.

Russo went twice to the girl's father for his consent to marry but the father told him he didn't think he was able to support a wife. Chums of Michelena at the candy factory say the girl had resolved to marry Lalo Russo in spite of her father's protest.

Last night neighbors saw an automobile drive close to the Carvino home and saw Michelena enter it. By the time word reached the father and brother the car had vanished.

The flight of Michelena and her determined sweetheart set the neighborhood in a flurry.

FRAGILE WIFE BRANDS YOUNG STINGY BRUTE

MRS. CORTLAND H. YOUNG AND ROSEBUD

At eighteen she was beautiful, with fame, love and riches showering upon her and with life holding to her lips its mysterious golden portion. Then she was Dorothea Campbell, diadem of the Ziegfeld roof. Now she is Mrs. Courtland H. Young, "penniless" wife of the millionaire publisher, disillusioned at twenty-two, her life pledged in service to the little daughter she must support if she would keep her custody.

MUCH-SOUGHT PASTEBOARDS ALL GONE

More than nine thousand mothers and children swarmed down on the Boston American today seeking tickets for the second Nantasket boat trip furnished by the Boston American for Boston's mothers and children.

Only 3,500 can be accommodated on such trip, but rather than disappoint the thousands of mothers and children waiting in line the Boston American gave out to the coupon holders every ticket for the remaining two boat trips on July 29 and August 4.

As a result there will be no more Nantasket trip coupons published in the American. There are no more tickets available. The boats will only carry what the law will allow, and that number of tickets were given out today.

If your ticket reads July 22, you must go on the trip next Tuesday. If it reads July 29, you must go on that date. If it reads August 4, you must go on that date. Tickets will only be good on the dates printed on them. And for those who did not receive tickets, remember, there will be no more coupons printed this Summer. All the tickets for the remaining trips are gone.

To the lucky ones who secured tickets Manager [illegible] of the [illegible] bathhouse gives this information: Bring your own bathing suits with you. Free bathing facilities will be furnished, but you must bring your own suits.

Howard J. Bushway of the Bushway Ice Cream Company will again give 3,500 bricks of [illegible] ice cream for the kiddies, so there will be enough of that. Francis J. Cummings of the Cummings Milk Company will furnish 3,500 pint bottles of milk—and it is pasteurized. Joe Stone of Paragon Park will see to it that the vaudeville show will be started early enough so the youngsters will not miss it and will be on hand to see that all have a good time at his amusement park. And Frank Archer, the Daddy of Moxie, will be on hand in the morning with more surprises—as usual. The Berwick Cake Company, Manager Sargent, will furnish 3,500 slices of delicious Berwick cake.

So, all in all, the second mothers' outing trip of the Boston American should be a whale of a time for all.

SAFE-CRACKERS RAID 12 PLACES IN WORCESTER

Worcester, July 19.—A gang of professional safe crackers visited this city, entered twelve offices, broke open four safes, stole $1,500 and escaped in an automobile stolen from Nathan Grossman of No. 9 Clarkson street.

The office of Mark D. Carrol, lumber dealer, No. 319 Main street, was entered, the safe opened and [illegible] stolen. In the office of E. M. [illegible] Company, No. 181 Commercial street, the safe was cracked and [illegible] stolen.

The safe in the office of Smith-Green Company, in the Graphic Arts Building, No. 30 Foster street, was rifled and $100 taken. From the safe in the office of John S. Stevenson in the same building, $30 was stolen.

The thieves entered the offices of the Globe Optical Company, American Optical Company, Edward F. Moore, Robinson and Southgate in the Graphic Arts building, but secured nothing.

Apparently the thieves were well trained. They jimmied open the office doors and then broke off the knobs from the various safes. None of the safes were "blown."

Early today four young men, believed by the police to be the safe robbers, stopped at the gasoline station at No. 1150 Millbury street and at the point of a gun, forced the attendant to fill their gasoline tank. Then they sped away.

AGAIN ASKS DAUGHTER TO COME

Vandenhecke Refuses to Let Friends Petition for a Life Sentence

Cyrille J. Vandenhecke of Lawrence, doomed to the electric chair sometime during the week of July 27, from his cell at State prison today sent an appeal to the Rev. Father Kelley, Augustinian priest of Lawrence, to come and remain with him until he is electrocuted.

Rev. Michael J. Murphy, prison chaplain, hastened to Lawrence with the message from the condemned man and it is expected that Father Kelley will come to the prison at once.

Vandenhecke became very much attached to Father Kelley while he was a prisoner in the Lawrence jail, Father Kelley being his spiritual adviser.

Vandenhecke today also wrote a letter to his daughter in Lawrence, asking her to come and see him before he dies. He sent a message to her two days ago, but to date she is said not to have received it. It is expected the daughter will come today or tomorrow to see her father in the death cell.

Vandenhecke thus far has proven the calmest man who has been seen awaiting death in the famous "Murderer's Row." He goes about everything in his cell with a calmness and deliberation that is almost uncanny.

He has refused to take advantage of the privilege accorded those in the death cell of ordering anything he wants to eat. He insists on eating the regular prison fare, and spends most of his time reading.

Friends of Vandenhecke who have been working for months to get either a commutation of his death sentence or a new trial, have almost reached the stage of despair.

Vandenhecke insists he is innocent and refuses to permit his friends to ask for a life sentence, declaring he wants liberty, a new trial or death.

3 NEAR DEATH IN WEST END CRASH

Three persons narrowly escaped death when two automobiles crashed headon at the corner of Leverett and Charles streets, West End, today. William F. Surett of No. 338 Medford street, Somerville, and his son, Herbert, were hurrying to work in a touring car when they crashed with the machine owned and driven by Adolph [illegible] of No. [illegible] Jamaica Plain. Although both cars were wrecked, the elder Surett was the only one injured. He suffered cuts about the face and hands.

WILSON AND MALONE SIGN TO BATTLE HERE ON JULY 29

$12,000 BID LANDS BIG TUSSLE

By JACK CONWAY.

JOHNNY WILSON, former world's middleweight champion, and Jack Malone of St. Paul have signed articles of agreement for a ten-round bout to be staged by the Suffolk A. A. at Braves Field on Tuesday evening, July 29.

The contracts were signed after a conference in this city between Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Suffolk Club, Johnny Wilson and Tommy Walsh, who represented Malone. Wilson made a hurried trip to Boston from New York to close the match, while Walsh came here from Chicago.

The Suffolk Club has hung up a $12,000 purse for the bout. The original offer was $10,000, but it was necessary to increase this bid to land the contest for Boston. The boxers will also have a privilege of 60 per cent. of the receipts if the event this is greater than $12,000.

Sixty per cent. of the purse, which at the least will amount to $7,200, will go to the winner, while the loser will pull down $4,800.

Wilson insisted that the bout be fought on a winner and loser basis. He believes he will win over Malone and wants the big end of the purse for his services.

* * *

THE Wilson-Malone match has been hanging fire for several years. During the [illegible] Wilson held the middleweight championship, Malone challenged him repeatedly without [illegible]. Wilson was [illegible] by Greb, Malone has kept on [illegible].

It was not until a few [illegible] that Johnny [illegible] his intention to battle Malone. [illegible] nounced he was ready to meet Malone if [illegible] ments. He [illegible] the tussle must be [illegible] and loser basis.

Before leaving for [illegible] Wilson announced that Malone would arrive in Boston five days before the contest to complete training for Wilson.

* * *

THE outdoor boxing season in New York has [illegible] a select gathering of [illegible] out for the [illegible] night. Other shows have been unable to draw [illegible].

The slump in New York boxing is due to the failure of champions to defend their titles in matches against legitimate opponents. Other than Harry Greb and Jack Dempsey, our brave title holders either wish to box hand-picked opponents or insist upon doing their stuff in other States. The public can help prevent conditions by refusing to patronize bouts in which champions are meeting pals unless they are meeting dangerous contenders.

* * *

PANCHO VILLA, world's flyweight champion, was expected to arrive in town tonight. He will rest up tomorrow so that he will be fit when he enters the ring against Wee Willie Woods, Scotch flyweight champion, in a ten-round bout at the Armory A. A. show at Mechanics Building on Monday night.

Villa will probably go in the bout a favorite. Pancho has never lost a bout in this city. He has defeated Danny Edwards, Young Montreal, Abe Friedman, Terry Tanner and Frankie Mason. He now believes he will be able to add the Scotch champion to his list of victims.

* * *

WOODS planned to end his training at [illegible] today. He has shown a world of class in his training during the past week and feels that his aggressiveness and punching power will enable him to win over Villa. In his last Boston start Woods showed plenty of class when he knocked out Little Polo of Waterville, Me., in seven rounds.

PROCTOR WILL PLAY LEONARD IN FINAL

Maplewood, N. H., July 19.—The first day of match play in the annual tournament of the New Hampshire State Golf Association brought leaden skies and intermittent showers, but the enthusiasts were out early and a good day of sport resulted.

In the semi-finals, Proctor of Hanover and Leonard of Nashua qualified by scores of 3 and 1 and 3 and 2 over Dowling and Cooper respectively. They will play 36 holes for the championship tomorrow.

C. N. Proctor, who is only eighteen years old, and will compete tomorrow for the championship, is the son of last year's State champion, Charles Proctor. His opponent, Leonard, was New Hampshire's champion in 1922.

Paris, July 19.—Baseball, America's national pastime, gained recognition on the Olympic program for this day when the international games exhibition at the Colombes stadium was featured by a diamond battle between the Ranelagh Club of Paris and a picked team of Americans.

The United States nine, behind the masterly mound work of W. B. Kilgor of Yonkers, N. Y., who held the opposing team to a single run, romped off with a 5-0 victory, while the French onlookers were alternately amazed at the crackling base hits and the characteristic bleacher comment of the American section of the stands. Benny Jones of New York and Stan Miltner, formerly of Yale, led the Americans' batting attack. The Americans' lineup was: [illegible] Bell, Moss, San Francisco, right field; Mitchell, Atlanta, left field; [illegible], New York, third base; [illegible], Chicago, second base; [illegible], Yale, short stop; Jones, New York, first base; Johnny Loftus, Houston, catcher; Thorne, Chicago, [illegible]; Kilmer, Yonkers.

Tiffe, Springfield, Mass., holds one leg.

MERRIMAN TROTS MILE IN 2 MINUTES

Toledo, O., July 19.—Merriman, driven by Tommy Murphy, clicked off the fastest mile of the year when he won hands down in 2 minutes flat in the first heat of the free for all pace, the feature event of getaway day of the grand circuit meeting at Fort Miami Park track. Sir Roch Loomis [illegible] Margaret Dillon, the [illegible] took the race [illegible] the pace.

[illegible] McDonald's colt, was a real success by winning the [illegible] stake of $2,000 for three year old 2:12 class trotters in straight heats. The 2:12 pace was easy for Hossie McKlyo (Palin) to win in straight heats. Tulip Frisco (White) captured the 2:25 class trot.

Medford Will Play Somerville Civics

The Medford City Team will cross bats with the Somerville Civics this afternoon at Tufts Park, Medford. With a record of 13 victories and one defeat the Medfordites are favored to [illegible] the visitors.

[illegible] Kline, former Medford High twirler, will pitch for the Medford nine. His brilliant pitching has made the Medford outfit one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the East.

Bill Leary, "Noddie" Mander, Fred Giles and Eddie Morton are the powers in the Medford line-up. "Sid" George, Okie O'Connor and Smith are a trio of stars who will display their wares for the Civics.

Olympic Receipts Over 6 Million Franc Mark

Paris, July 19.—The gate receipts of the Olympic games crossed the 6,000,000-franc mark to date. The largest items were: Association football, 1,798,000 francs; athletics, 1,626,000; rugby, 370,000, and polo, 350,000. The swimming receipts, however, with three more days yet to go, are already past the 300,000-franc mark. This sport probably will stand third as the money-maker.

The Olympic gate receipts were insured for 8,000,000 francs. A well-known British company which wrote the policy probably will be called upon to make up a deficit to the French committee of a sum ranging from one to one and one-half million francs. The insurance cost the committee a premium of 250,000 francs.

NORTON WINS AT CHICAGO

Glencoe, Ill., July 19.—Play in men's singles and doubles advanced to the semi-final rounds in the Illinois State Championships. There was but one surprise, the slaughter of Gerald Patterson, brawny captain of the Australian Davis Cup squad, by Brian I. C. Norton, wiry South African, who now makes his home in St. Louis.

Experts who have watched Patterson through this and other tournaments this season said the big fellow did not let himself out, that he did not wish to play through to William T. Tilden on clay courts and that he was saving himself for the Davis Cup matches.

As a result of today's singles matches Norton will meet in semifinals Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, who won from his fellow townsman, C. J. Griffin, 9-7, 6-1, in a tight fight.

In the upper bracket semi-finals William T. Tilden will oppose A. H. Chapin, Springfield, Mass.

PLANS FOR MOTOR PACED TITLE MADE

Newark, N. J., July 19.—Frank L. Kramer, chairman of the Board of Control of the National Cycling Association, announced that the motor paced championship of America this year will be decided by a series of twelve races, the distance to range from 40 to 65½ miles. The races will be held on tracks in New York, Boston, Providence, Worcester, New Bedford and Newark. George Chapman of Newark is the present title holder, having held it for four consecutive years. The first titular contest will be at New York Tuesday night. The distance will be 50 miles.

DILBOY AND SALEM PLAY TIE AT OVAL

Dilboy and Salem played a 2 to 2 tie game at Tufts Oval last evening. Dilboy gathered 13 hits to Salem's 7, but couldn't bunch them as did Salem. Russell, Dilboy third baseman, led at bat with three singles in four trips to the plate. "Chuck" Darling got the only extra base hits, a double and triple.

SOUTH SHORE TENNIS LEAGUE PLAYS TODAY

The second series of matches in the South Shore Tennis League will be played this afternoon with Hingham at Hatherly, Duxbury at Cohasset and Sandy Cove at Scituate. This season's schedule calls for three matches at each meeting, two singles and one double.

Providence, R. I., July 19.—John A. Gammons of the Wanamoisset Country Club won the Rhode Island State golf championship, defeating H. E. Kenworthy of Metacomet, 1 up. The play was even for the first eighteen holes, but Gammons won out in the second round.

Leonard | What's the Joke? | Walker

By TAD

WE understand that Leonard and Walker are to box twelve rounds in New Jersey where decisions are forbidden. Leonard is defending no title and has nothing to lose. Walker can only lose his title on a knockout.

The last time the lightweight champion fought the welterweight champ there was considerable talk after the battle.

Some declared that it was not on the up and up, but on for betting purposes only.

Boy, get that can of chloride of lime.

At His Age, Too!

The Los Angeles Athletic Club recently presented Jim Corbett with a gold wrist watch. Jim wears it daily now. It is said that he will join the Shuberts next season in one of their shows.

Coming Heavyweight Champs.

Wherever you go nowadays you're liable to run into a guy with a thick necked, silly looking person, who is introduced to you as "The next heavyweight champion." The manager shoots a line of warm ozone about his man that sounds like the spiel of an oil well booster.

The more we see of this breed the more we are reminded of Mark Twain. It was Mark, you will remember, who defined a mine as follows: "A mine is a hole in the ground owned by a liar."

That's His Story and He'll Stick to It.

We ran into Florrie Barnett the other day and asked him if the boxers were improving any in his opinion.

"Well," piped Florrie, who has watched them carefully for thirty years or more, "I told you six years ago about the greatest fighters that ever lived and I haven't changed my opinion since."

What Florrie told us then was this:

"You can say for me that big or little, black or white, George Lavigne was the white-haired boy of the glove men. He was a fellow that you could put your dough on, sit back in your chair after the bell rang and feel certain that you'd get the greatest run for your money that was possible.

"Lavigne was a real lightweight, too. He made the old 133 without trouble, but many a fellow he fought ran into the 40s and never a squawk from Lavigne.

"No lightweight could stand before him when he was right.

"Lavigne, like the other great old-timers, was too tough. The old-timers were rugged fellows used to hard knocks and used to going the distance.

"Battling Nelson is the nearest of modern fighters to Lavigne. I mean in the matter of style. There was nothing to stop Lavigne once he got going. He was absolutely fearless, loved to be in a mix, and was a terror for punishment. He was an awful hitter and a terrible crowder. There was no rest when he got to the centre of the ring.

"You remember how the Englishman laughed when Sam Fitzpatrick brought Lavigne over to London to fight the great Dick. The Kid gave away about fifteen pounds and knocked Dick for a ghoul. Many another guy laughed as he saw that short, chunky Lavigne climb through the ropes, but they didn't laugh after seven or eight rounds.

"Yes, he was an ideal fighter. He had a very determined jaw, a short nose like McGovern's and light, laughing eyes.

"I don't know of a lightweight since his time, who could have gone the limit with him. You know in Lavigne's day the lightweights were all fighters—I mean tough guys. Nowadays most of them couldn't break a pane of glass with a swing.

"George Dixon was another great fighter. I have to put Dixon second, although he was one of my favorites. There was a bird who could rip a left to the body and then to the chin before you could say 'Jack Robinson.'

"Another pip was Jack McAuliffe. Oh boy, what a hitter! He had a back as wide as a church door, and couldn't he sock! He fought in the days of the old bare knuckles, too. Of course, he slowed up a lot near the finish. I remember the night he fought Young Griffo. He came into the ring looking like a Japanese wrestler. Fatter than a prize porker and, will you believe it, he was drinking wine between the rounds! Those were the happy days, eh?"

'Bring Back My Davie to Me' Sings the Disconsolate Tribe

St. Louis, Mo., July 19.—Until Davy Bancroft recuperates and returns to the game the Braves do not promise to stir much enthusiasm. They finish their series with the Cardinals with a double-header today and will move over to Chicago tonight to grapple with the second place Cubs.

When the Braves arrived here the Cardinals were the tailenders in the National League but during their stay of three days Branch Rickey's knotholers have displayed first division life.

They have won the four games played and unless Dick Rudolph can find a miracle pitcher, or something along those lines, the seventh placers will close the trip in the Mound City disgraced to the extent of six successive defeats.

PITCHING WEAK.

It is impossible to throw the blame on acting manager Dick Rudolph. In succession he has seen Jesse Barnes, Lou North, Tim McNamara and Joe Genewich peppered from the hill. John Cooney and Benton probably will get the call this afternoon to stem the vicious Mound City hitters.

Take yesterday's game, for example. Genewich started but did not finish the first inning. He was greeted by singles by Smith and Holm, a double by Hornsby, singles by Blades and a double by Toporcer. The Cardinals opened with five runs off Joe and that was more than the Braves could get against Leo Dickerman. When all of the runs had been counted the Cardinals were in front in a 10-4 score.

BANCROFT SORELY MISSED.

Bancroft's absence has simply ripped the Braves' defense. Many bounders are going past Bob Smith and Padgett for stinging base hits that would be gobbled in by dandy Dave. And it counts to retire batters.

Weak fielding does not make its appearance in the box score and the Braves yesterday according to the official box score fielded perfectly but those who saw the game unite in admitting that four ordinary bounders around second base became base hits for the Cardinals.

These are sad days for the Braves and they will rejoice when Bancroft returns to the line-up.

BOXING TROPHY WON BY 181ST DIVISION

The 181st Infantry was awarded the divisional boxing trophy in the bouts at Camp Devens last night.

Opponent of Helen Wills Is Star of Promise

Mlle. Vlasto, who unexpectedly won from Miss Kathleen McKane in the women's Olympic tennis singles yesterday, is a young star who first gained prominence on the Riviera a year ago last Winter. She is the daughter of Greek parents, who have recently become naturalized in France.

At Wimbledon in 1923 she was eliminated early, but the past year she has received instruction from experts and has advanced amazingly.

She is only about 20 years old and her victory over Miss McKane is her most brilliant one to date.

PLAN TO HONOR TRIBE TWIRLER

Millville will move to Boston, Aug. 9. Bag and baggage the folks from the Blackstone will be at Braves Field to honor their townies, Tim McNamara and Leo Hartnett, and, to make things perfect for the round-up, the Boston National league management has dedicated the day to Tim and Leo. Chicago is the visiting team.

Already Jimmy Mulvey, heading the Millville committee planning for the day, has promise of every fan in the town to be present in some form or other. There will be a band along and all the fixin's, for both boys are popular with the neighbors.

Tim is the hurling ace of the Braves and Hartnett is one of the Cub's best catchers. The pair used to be the star battery for the Millville team, but once they were able to move out of town, the big leagues was a natural step for them. Hartnett served a year at Worcester, while Tim jumped into league ball from Fordham University. Although on rival clubs they still retain their old comradeship. The day ought to be a red-letter affair for both.

MEDFORD BURIED BY SAINTS, 17 TO 4

St. Andrew's climbed into second place in the Twilight league standing by walloping the Medford Telephone nine at the Fulton Street Grounds last evening, 17 to 4.

Andy Carroll pitched the entire game for the Saints and held Medford to seven hits. Joe Mathews opposed him at the start of the game but retired after splitting his finger.

Saint Andrew's got away to a flying start scoring six runs in the first before Medford knew what it was all about. Murphy, the Medford catcher, was the big star of the game, however. He had a perfect day at bat with three hits, two of them triples.

RAINBOW DIVISION TO HONOR GOWDY

Cincinnati, July 19.—Just what the members of Cincinnati subchapter of the Rainbow Division Veterans Association think of Hank Gowdy, New York National League catcher, will be shown Sunday when they plan to present Hank with a handsome gift.

Gowdy is the only player in the National League who saw service with the Rainbow Division, and was the first big league ball player to enlist for service in the World War.

'BUGS' HOLD RACE IN STIFF BREEZE

Duxbury, July 19.—The Duxbury Yacht Club "bugs" raced in a stiff southwest wind. The boats were required to carry at least one reef, and the Firefly went around with two. Six of the boats broke their masts either just before or during the race. Kenneth Sampson sailed a good race in the Sandflea, coming nearly 30 seconds ahead of the Katydid, sailed by Chester Eaton, Jr.

SPORT COURSES ATTRACT STARS

A considerable number of well-known athletes registered as students yesterday in the Harvard Summer School courses in physical education and in athletic coaching. In all, there were 325 men and women who signed up for the courses, and last year's enrollment record of 330 is expected to be broken today.

Among those who signed up were Pat Reed and Billy Shevlin of boxing fame. In addition, there were quite a few football heroes of former years. These included Jimmie Liston, crack Boston College halfback of a few years ago; Dennis Gildea, star centre and captain of Holy Cross a couple of years ago; George Brickley, former Philadelphia athletic baseball player and Trinity College football star; Jack Leary of Waltham football and major league baseball fame, and a large number of other athletes, many of them from the South and Mid-West.

GOTHAM FANS RAISED $32,000 ABOVE QUOTA

New York, July 19.—New York did more than raise its quota of $100,000 of the $500,000 estimated as needed to defray the expenses of the American Olympic team which is doing so much in Paris to maintain the prestige of the United States in sports.

Gustavus T. Kirby, chairman of the New York Committee of the American Olympic Committee, made a tentative report yesterday which shows that New York contributed $132,938.59 toward the expenses of the team, or over $32,000 in excess its quota.

The largest individual amount of $25,000 was subscribed by the New York Athletic Club, made up of contributions from the members. The next largest, $15,000, is credited to Thomas Hitchcock to send the polo team, of which his son was a member, abroad. He said over the telephone last night, however, that this must be a mistake, as he had not made a subscription.

The profits from various meets including boxing at Madison Square Garden, the Eastern track and field tryouts at the Yankee Stadium and the swimming tryouts at Briar Cliff Manor amounted to $42,634.11.

Newark, N. J., July 19.—Frank L. Kramer, chairman of the board of control of the National Cycling Association, today announced that the motor-paced championship of America this year will be decided by a series of twelve races, the distance to range from forty to sixty-five and one-half miles. The races will be held on tracks in New York, Revere, Providence, Worcester, New Bedford and Newark.

U. S. GYMNASTS FAIL TO PLACE IN TRIALS

Colombes, France, July 19.—The American Olympic gymnasts failed to score either in the individual fixed bar competition, which was won by Stukelz of Jugosiavia, or in individual parellel bar contest, in which Guttinger of Switzerland took first place.

Czechoslovakia has been obliged to withdraw from the gymnastic team events. Indruch, one of its best men, having seriously injured himself during the individual competition this afternoon. The six members of the team will continue to complete in the various events, but their scores will count only for individual classification.

GUILFORD AND GORTON PLAY TODAY FOR STATE CROWN

GREATEST MATCH IN HISTORY

Will Jesse Guilford, far famed siege gun of Woodland, blow up and will Ray Gorton, a rival neighbor from Brae-Burn, steal from him the cup which will this afternoon be conferred on the greatest golfer of the State?

These two questions will be answered today when the pair meet at Woodland to play for the State amateur golf crown.

In any event, the battle will be a splendid one, and the lucky one who finally dons the royal purple will have richly deserved the honor.

GREATEST IN HISTORY.

The final round of the amateur golf championship of 1924 appears to be the greatest in history. Fate, the baffling power which defies logic and arithmetic by tossing champions into the discard and sweeping "dark horses" to the fore without the least regard for sport prophets, has upset the dope by smiling on the two favorites and carrying them through to the finals. And a more logical final could not be named than the one which brings together Ray Gorton and the famous Guilford.

This especially in the light of the withdrawal of Ouimet after the qualification round on Wednesday. Ouimet and Guilford had been doped as finalists, but the unexpected dropping out of the former left the field open for Gorton and he came through with bells on.

Competition today is bound to be strenuous and there is every reason to believe that spectators will be treated to an exhibition of golf which will make them think the marathon hike around the course is a mere pleasure jaunt. Rivalry has always been keen between the two boys.

GUILFORD IS FAVORITE.

A year ago in the State finals at Brae-Burn, Gorton spilled cold water on Guilford's aspirations when he eliminated the great clubber in the semi-final round. But Guilford has a great start on his opponent in that he has already won two State titles, while Gorton's flight to fame was brutally terminated in the final round by Ouimet in 1914. That was the year when Gorton tied for the medal in the national championship with Bill Fownes.

Both golfers displayed splendid form yesterday. Guilford showed that he had lost none of his cunning, none of the tremendous power which gave him his nickname, when he romped in ahead of Emery Stratton of Brae-Burn 6 and 4 in the third round, and turned back R. W. Estabrook of the Country Club, 6 and 5, in the semi-final round.

Gorton also performed his day's work to the queen's taste. He opened up by turning back Howard Paul of the Bellevue Club, in the P. M. session. And then with a good lunch packed under his belt, he girded his classy pair of knickers and sailed against Billy Whitcomb of Worcester, who had won his way into the semi-final round by eliminating Eddie Stimson of Brae-Burn, 2 and 1. But the Worcester boy was out of his class and Gorton spelled his demise, 4 and 3.

GOLDEN WHEEL RACE AGAIN

At the request of thousands of bike fans who witnessed last week's sensational 50 mile Golden Wheel race at the Revere Cycle Track, Manager Nat Butler has consented to stage the event tonight.

Frank Keenan

Vincent Madonna, Gustav Ganay, Charles Verkeyn, Frank Keenan, George Chapman and Henri Wynsdau is the way the riders finished in last week's contest, and it is the way they will line up in tonight's Revenge race.

This aggregation is the cream of pace followers now racing here. In the last contest they covered the second fastest time for fifty miles ever ridden in this country under present conditions. With the bitterness and ill-feeling urging them on to greater efforts, a new record is not unlooked for.

Miss Wills All Ready for Net Finals Today

Miss Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, before the start of the final match for the women's title at Paris, in which she meets Mlle. Vlasto today. The coast girl has again adopted her eyeshade, which many claim slows up her game.

TOM KIRBY IS BEATEN BY NORWEGIAN

Paris, July 19.—Tom Kirby, the Boston glover, was eliminated from the Olympic light heavyweight ranks by [illegible] of Norway, whose hitting was superior to that of the American. [illegible] during the bout was warned twice for holding.

Kirby, battling gamely, was the aggressor most of the time, but the Scandinavian employed his advantages of height, weight and reach in good fashion and landed on the jaw of the American most effectively several times. Kirby ended the bout in a whirlwind rally, landing flush on the Norwegian's chin just before the final bell. The decision was regarded by the spectators as a close one.

Porzio, the Argentine slugger, climbed another rung of the ladder toward the Olympic heavyweight crown when he gained his decision over Greathouse.

Porzio, owing to superior physical condition and the added advantage of height, weight and reach, piled up numerous points in the first two rounds over Greathouse, who had been [illegible] to take his place in the ring tonight against the Argentine.

The United States though leading with six individual qualifiers in the Olympic amateur boxing competition, [illegible] the Argentine with four. France, Canada, Belgium and Denmark each with three, Great Britain and Norway each with two, and Spain, Sweden, South Africa, Ireland, Italy and Holland each with one lined up [illegible] for the battle royal tomorrow night.

Shame on You Georges for Doing Such a Thing

The world admits that the French are an impulsive people. They think nothing of kissing you on the cheek. They do so on the slightest provocation. But hitherto one has not yet seen a Frenchman kiss a horse on the cheek, even though that horse is the king of French horses. The camera don't lie. What the lens sees it shows up in the picture, and here is the picture of Georges kissing Epinard right on the cheek, or should one say the jowl.

HELEN TO PLAY MLLE. VLASTO IN FINALS

Helen Wills defeated Miss Golding of France 6-2, 6-1, in the semi-final of the women's championship and qualified to meet Mlle. Vlasto, a [illegible] young woman playing on the French team on Sunday, who won a [illegible] over Miss [illegible] McKane of England in the [illegible] match. Their score was [illegible].

Vincent Richards defeated Count [illegible] of Italy, [illegible] [illegible] of keen sportsmanship by the [illegible] in the [illegible] which [illegible] Richards' [illegible] in a [illegible] of the anti-American sentiment and tried to [illegible] off the game. Richards [illegible] 6-1, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1. The young American [illegible] Cochet of France in the final and championship match as Cochet unexpectedly [illegible] his countryman, Jean Borotra, winner of the recent Wimbledon men's singles title and advanced to the last bracket. Score, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

R. N. Williams, the American men's captain, and Mrs. George Wightman, commander of the women's squad, went on to the semi-final round of the mixed doubles by defeating Fick and Miss Muller of Sweden, 8-6, 6-2. Richards participated in another triumph when he and Francis Hunter put aside the Alonso brothers of Spain in the men's doubles, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

The men's doubles developed the only American casualty of the day. Williams, still limping from an injury to an ankle, and Watson Washburn were defeated by the South African pair, Condon and Richardson, in five sets, 1-6, [illegible], 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Wills and Mrs. Wightman also turned in a second winning. They collaborated in defeating Miss Colyer and Mrs. Shepherd of England in the women's doubles, 6-4, [illegible].

Mlle. Vlasto, although she is a very capable player, is not ordinarily regarded as the equal of Miss McKane, whom Miss Wills expected to meet in the final.

WHAT GUTENBERG DID FOR THE ART OF PRINTING

PRIOR to 1450 a book was a [illegible] years [illegible] the [illegible]. The only books were [illegible] wealthy. [illegible] shelves of their libraries. Each of these books had been written or [illegible] by hand and required years of work.

It was in 1450 that Johann Gutenberg printed a book from type, and from that time on printing presses were made all over the world and books distributed among the people.

Gutenberg was born in Mainz, Germany, about 1400. His father, [illegible] Gensfleisch, was a wealthy nobleman, who was driven, with his family, out of Mainz to Strassburg when Johann was a boy. Later Johann adopted his mother's name, which was Gutenberg.

Deprived of their home and riches, Johann Gutenberg and his father were compelled to work. Johann had a creative and inventive mind, which induced Andrew Dritzehn to finance him in a business of polishing stones and making mirrors. They had counted on making a great deal of money selling mirrors during the pilgrimage to Aix-la-Chapelle, but the pilgrimage was postponed. In 1438 Dritzehn and Gutenberg went into partnership with Anton and Andrew Heilmann.

Woodcuts, after the fashion of those made for pictures, were used. How successful this enterprise was no one knows. But since Gutenberg returned to Mainz ten years later to borrow money, it is supposed that if he made any money at all he spent it on experiments.

But Gutenberg had an ideal! He planned to print a book from type made of wood. After succeeding in interesting a shrewd and wealthy merchant, John Fust, he employed Shoffer, a competent printer, and set to work making type. But Gutenberg and Shoffer started by making each letter separately, which was a very slow process. Besides, the wood was too soft to last. Shoffer discovered that by making a form of each letter and pouring hot metal into the moulds, stronger type could be made at a much faster rate.

Gutenberg determined that the first book which came from his press would be the Bible in the original Latin. But he never had sufficient money and was compelled, from time to time, to go to John Fust for more. The Bible in two volumes was completed at last, however, in 1455.

Poor Gutenberg had just one flash of victory and success when all his dreams seemed to tumble and crush him. Fust didn't give him a chance to pay his debt. He demanded the money, and seized the type and press when Gutenberg pleaded for more time.

No one noted Gutenberg's death in 1468. It was not until many years later that men realized the greatness of his courage and the importance of his achievement.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THIS is the time of the year when June brides are coming back from their honeymoons. They step off the train with a marriage license in one hand and a lawyer's address in the other.

ONE dame remarked that love may be blind, but she was tired of looking at it through sore eyes.

THE average woman has to spend at least six weeks on a wedding trip. It takes her that long to pick the rice out of her hair.

A CHICAGO girl said that her husband threw rice at her every day during their honeymoon. She wouldn't have cared if he had taken it out of the double boiler first.

SHE claimed it was the worst honeymoon she's had in eight years.

SHE stayed seven weeks on the wedding trip and then sent the bridegroom home to his folks C. O. D.

BUT they refused to take him because she had kept him over thirty days.

ONE bride didn't go on any honeymoon at all. She thought that her alimony would start quicker if she stayed home.

LAST month was the busiest month in the history of the telephone company. All the June brides were 'phoning home to their mothers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

FLOATING spots before the eyes describes an annoying symptom complained of by many persons. These spots take all manner of shapes. They may be like cob-webs, or hairs or stars or may take on a multiplicity of forms.

These spots move with the eye. A given spot may be just to one side of the centre of the eye, but when the eye is moved quickly in that direction the spot moves also.

Dr. Mahoney.

These spots are of little consequence except to persons of nervous temperament. Such persons are bitterly annoyed, they fear they cannot read, that they are unable to see distinctly and that eventually they will become blind.

Don't worry for a moment about blindness from this source. These spots are caused by a torpid liver, constipation, diarrhoea, heartburn or abdominal discomfort. Coated tongue and headache are frequently present with the spots.

Set about to correct the conditions noted above and you will find that the spots readily disappear.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Please write to me on the subject of tubercular meningitis? What treatment, if one recovers, will they be blind or deaf and can they be built up afterwards?
MRS. G. H., PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

A person who is ill with tubercular meningitis has a very serious condition and one which it is hard to treat successfully. Treatment for this condition outside of surgical treatment, is the same as treatment employed for tuberculosis of the lungs.

Can a fissure be healed without operating? C. W. F.

The condition which you speak of might be healed without operation, but it seems to me it would take a very long time. The operation, which is a minor one, would take so short a time that the discomfort experienced without an operation would more than overcome the aversion to operate. There are many ointments which are used for this condition, no one any better than the others.

Am a woman thirty years of age. When I get excited, all the blood rushes up to my neck. First, I get a burning sensation. Then my neck and throat gets red. Can you tell me if it is anything serious?
G. L. W., BOSTON.

I do not think that the condition which you speak of is anything serious. Evidently, under the stress of excitement, the vessels of your neck and throat dilate, causing the flush you speak of. I do not think it is anything to worry about.

From Expectant Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

Just a line to ask if you know of some kind reader who would help me out a little. I am expecting another baby and haven't any clothes for it when it arrives and I have got three little ones besides and find it pretty hard to get along. My husband was in the hospital six months with typhoid fever, and my second oldest child was also in there. My second oldest child fell and got his head hurt badly. He has been in the hospital again.

Need Clothes for Camp

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to see if you could get me some things for my children. I have been trying to work to take care of them, as there is a large family, but I have been laid up for over two weeks and don't know when I can get up. If you get some clothes for them it would be a great help. They have a chance to go to a camp for ten days if I could only get them something to wear. They need pants and blouses and stockings. Their ages are 13, 10 and 8. The little girl is 5 and baby 2. Please let me know right off, as they are in need of these things very much. Thanking you.

MRS. H. N.

Needs a Stroller

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please help me? I wrote to you before and you helped me very kindly, and hope you will help me again. Has anybody a stroller? My father is out of work and the little pay my mother gets goes right out as soon as it comes in. Has anybody got any kind of clothes for us? My mother can make over a lot for us. We are boys 15 and 2 years, the girls are 9, 11, 13 and 16. We will be very glad for anything we get. Why I want the stroller is because mother works and when I go for a walk I have to carry my little brother. I am 13. He is not strong, and I have to take care of the children and house.

SEQUEL OF CHICKIE

By Elenore Meherin

Having Tasted the Bitter, This Boston Girl, Wisely Cautious, Seeks the Sweet

HE saw the faint protest moving on her lips; saw her lashes dark, moistening against her cheek. Her beauty affected him so deeply he wished to speak of it. So sweet, so delicate seemed her face, and so quiet. This was its mystery for him, and its lure.

Quiet—why was she so quiet? Why was a girl so young, so full of piercing charm, shutting out the world with this serene indifference? He wondered and his ardor grew.

He said: "I'd love to see beneath."

"Beneath what?"

"You."

Chickie smiled. He went on: "You say you came down here because of a wish to see things. And yet you are not at all adventurous, not a bit eager for experience. In all this fairyland can't you find a better recreation for your afternoon off than visiting a hospital?"

"Is that such an odd thing to do, Mr. Willman?"

Odd for Her

"Yes—for a girl like you: spending your earnings to carry flowers to a hospital." He grew silent, driving now through a broad avenue. To their right and before them, rugged, yet softly purple in the sun, stretched a vast wall of mountains, the distant San Gabriels. "Have you been to Garden City?"

"No."

"Next Saturday I'll take you there."

"Oh—" a sharp breath, like a sigh.

Willman heard it, put his hand on hers with an impetuous "There! Now why do you do that? Why do you sigh?"

Chickie laughed. "You are in an evil mood today, I fear. Why pick on me if I grab off a long breath now and then?"

He said, the color in his face quickened and [illegible] light in his eyes: "Well, have your vows against us all, Chickie. But there are a thousand things to see here and I'm going to be your guide. You can't object to that, can you? Why refuse a favor to me when you are so free with them to others? My need is greater."

Chickie recalled, with a pang, Jake's advice: "Fuss [illegible], just as you did before—" How could she do that? She sank down against the cushions, managed to smile: "I was bringing those flowers to an old, old man, Mr. Willman."

Hand the Bouquet

"Count me as old as Methuselah then and hand me the bouquet. Listen, [illegible], it can't interfere any with you, can it? You can dismiss me without a moment's notice. I promise to bear no grudge. But we are to be friends. I'd love to take you around. I know the country well."

She said softly, as one [illegible]: "I have told you."

"I know [illegible] and [illegible]. I agreed, didn't I?"

They stopped before an impressive house, very sedate in the front, but at the rear widening in exuberant splashes of color.

Chickie's breath caught with excitement. "Barbara expects me! Are you sure?"

"Well, you're not going to run off on me now, are you?"

She laughed. "No—I [illegible] visiting [illegible]."

She was in a [illegible]. Willman led the way along a side path. They entered the conservatory. To the right of this was a long [illegible] room [illegible] in dark woods. It gave an air of peace and [illegible] of something [illegible]. There were [illegible] tries and [illegible] with [illegible] figures moving [illegible] following [illegible].

Thought It Sad

Chickie [illegible] and [illegible]. Willman smiled. "[illegible] I'm doing this [illegible]. I have a [illegible]."

"Oh—[illegible]?"

He [illegible] make [illegible] enough [illegible].

"But this [illegible]. Lovely, it seems to me."

He said slowly with his head turned from her: "It should be. I was expressing here the most beautiful thing I know—the most beautiful. Some day I [illegible]. I am going to learn why it should be sad—"

Chickie answered vaguely, with her heart thumping: "Are you?"

His hand reached out suddenly, touching hers like a [illegible].

She was filled with uneasiness. Then Barbara, sparkling with enthusiasm, claimed her—taking her off to show the wondrous things of her trousseau, even then she was absent minded. She thought with dread: "He thinks he loves me— oh—"

Barbara said: "Lee told you, Chickie? You won't refuse, will you?"

Chickie said: "I can't do otherwise. You can see that."

She shook her head like a flash. "I can't see it. What's more, I won't. Lee and I went over every bit of it—and it's just going to be. We want you."

Chickie smiled. She picked up a nightgown of lavender silk, embroidered on net—filmsy as a cobweb. It gave her a thrill touching it. There were dozens, one more delicate than the other. She said: "How is [illegible]?"

Barbara [illegible] her eyes. "A dream." She began to tell Chickie of the wedding plans. It was to be in less than a month. Edith was to be matron of honor. Well—Barbara didn't mind as long as she insisted on it. There would be six bridesmaids—and it was to be a rainbow affair—all color. Chickie should wear blue or rose or palest green. Which did she choose? She could say first.

They were discussing this. Edith came in. She said with a gracious languor: "How are you, Miss Bryce? Here, Babsie dear—I have the precious box for you. Look at it."

It was the wedding veil—pearl colored lace. It fell over Barbara's hands shimmering and soft as sea spray. Barbara's eyes glowed.

Edith smiled: "[illegible] years since I wore it. I went over your lot, Babsie."

"Please call me Barbara. I'm suspicious, Edith, old dear, when you get affectionate."

Four Enough

The bright high [illegible]. "We've decided, Babsie, dear, that four bridesmaids are enough. You see, Anita won't be here. I learned that today. She's going East. We'll have to do with Myra and Janette. Vera and Lucille—makes it nice—two dark and two fair."

The wedding veil dropped sharply from Barbara's hands. Her eyes were [illegible]. She said in a voice [illegible] with hurt and [illegible]: "It's my wedding, Edith. I'll choose my own attendants."

"You did, didn't you? I talked to father. He believes four is quite enough. Be careful of the [illegible]. [illegible] out again, Miss Bryce."

Barbara picked up the veil, her hands trembling so that she couldn't put it in the folds. Chickie took it from her. "Don't feel [illegible], Barbara, because I wouldn't have [illegible]."

"She'll pay for this. She's vile [illegible]."

"No—she's [illegible] this time."

Barbara went [illegible] and caught Chickie's hands. "Don't you say it. She can run her own show—and you might [illegible] in [illegible] way she's doing it. But she won't run mine."

Chickie said quietly: "I shouldn't be drawn into it."

Barbara's cheeks reddened with shame. She said to her brother when he was taking Chickie to the car: "Your sister has spoiled it all."

Willman's face became pale. "What did she do?"

"Ask Chickie." Barbara turned with a [illegible] rush and ran into the house.

He helped Chickie to her place [illegible] starting the engine. "[illegible]," I wonder.

He Was Vexed

He [illegible]. "And that affects you?" [illegible] down Barbara to [illegible] Miss Bryce.

"Yes. And she shouldn't make it [illegible] for me, Mr. Willman. Why [illegible] were only because of all the [illegible] the other girls [illegible] the other would do I should refuse."

"You're not going to be in that [illegible] anyway?"

"A matter of [illegible], I fear."

"You're [illegible] obstinate."

She glanced down at her clasped hands, [illegible] her eyes swiftly. "You force me to be." She smiled. "It's not a very fair way for one friend to treat another."

His [illegible] sensitive and [illegible]: "I don't mean to be. Another [illegible], please?" You see, Barbara [illegible] I had our hearts set on this. You should be lenient, Miss Bryce! I won't ask about [illegible] again, this [illegible]. I mean to have the old man's flowers next Saturday."

Towards the end of the week Stella Willman came for Chickie. It was [illegible]: "Sit down, Miss Bryce. Barbara is dropping in. She asked me to keep you. She has a request to make of you. I trust you won't refuse her——"

Chickie guessed what the request would be. She felt dismayed and troubled as when one's bare feet sink in chill sands. But she said to herself: "Wait—nothing to fear—"

Barbara, pleading and uncertain, made her request. She said in a soft, anxious tone: "I wouldn't ask it, Chickie, but I have to. Won't you? It would be the greatest kind of a favor."

They sat in a little booth of the chocolate shop. Chickie had before her a strawberry sundae. She turned the spoon slowly.

Janette Bowles, one of Barbara's bridesmaids, had eloped the previous evening. Janette was tall and fair. Barbara wanted Chickie to take her place.

"You can surely get someone else, Barbara—"

"At the last minute, Chickie? I've scarcely more than a week. I asked Margo Binney, the only one who would do at all. She was huffed because I didn't ask her in the first place. She just refused, said her mother was ill. You can't ask everyone to play second fiddle, especially since the names were printed."

"But I can't, Barbara. I just can't."

Barbara's lips [illegible] with [illegible]. "I thought you would, Chickie. I thought you could understand. I'll have to change everything if you refuse me. You know I've wanted you right along. You seemed so glad for me—more than anyone else. Oh, I thought you surely would."

Full of Memories

"Yes [illegible] see—" Chickie paused. She was now so full of memories they seemed all [illegible] her down into pools, warm, [illegible] with pain. Now it was that night two years ago when she had gone to Rose Anton's marriage. And in a hushed, sacred way Chickie prayed for the holy moment when they two would stand before the altar giving the promises. How the tears had come to her eyes because it was so tender, so beautiful to her. And now, suddenly, she had found his hand clasped on hers.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please advise me the proper dress to wear for a 4 o'clock church wedding, for two bridesmaids and matron of honor. The bride will be dressed in gray with hat to match.

ESTHER B.

THEY should wear informal afternoon frocks. Any light color is appropriate. How about one of the new beige or lovely reds?

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be a bridesmaid and am wearing an orchid crepe de chine dress. Is it proper to wear black satin slippers and light hose or white slippers and white hose?

M. R.

IT would be better for you to wear stockings and slippers that match your dress. You can have the white ones dyed the shade of your dress, and this would give a more harmonious effect to your costume. Black satin slippers would not look appropriate.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

(1) I have known a young gentleman for quite some time. At present he is in the hospital. Would it be proper for me to visit him?

(2) If so, what would you suggest taking to him? ROSLYN.

IT is not good form for you to go alone to the hospital to visit him, but if you could arrange to go with his mother, sister or some one of his friends or yours, it would be a friendly thing to do. It is more convenient if you make a definite arrangement as to the time that he may expect you.

(2) If you are to send your gift, I suggest that you send flowers or fruit. If you are going to bring the gift, a most welcome one is a book or magazine. If you send flowers, be sure to order ones that have not an oppressive fragrance; they are very difficult in a hospital room. At present cherries are a good fruit to send, for they are very easy for the patient to eat and they seem particularly delicious this year.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"Knowledge is of two kinds. We know a subject ourselves or we know where we can find the information upon it."

Both types of knowledge are important. Dr. Johnson is quoted as asserting in Boswell's "Life of Johnson."

"Justice says:
Be just to fact, or blaming or approving;
But—generous? No, nor loving!"

Mere justice knows neither generosity nor love, Browning says in "Ferishtah's Fancies."

"The whole world without a native home,
Is nothing but a prison of larger room."

Only in the home is there perfect freedom, the poet, Abraham Cowley, declares in his epistle "To the Bishop of Lincoln."

"Vanity is as ill at ease under indifference as tenderness is under love which it cannot return."

Indifference is the severest blow to a vain person, as George Eliot has noted in "Daniel Deronda."

"To be really cosmopolitan, a man must be at home even in his own country."

Thomas W. Higginson makes this humorous comment in "Short Studies of American Authors."

"How few think justly of the thinking few!
How many never think, who think they do!"

Jane Taylor in "Essays in Rhyme," is responsible for this comment.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

H[illegible] said: "Now we'll have to get a new job. It wasn't much of a cinch trailing the [illegible] and keeping [illegible] where [illegible] wanted him. I can't say I had anything against Neal Hyland, but I'll have to [illegible] different [illegible] of [illegible] than keeping Hyland where those interfering fools couldn't reach him. It's one fine big relief now that it's all over—now that"——

Evvy's voice failed her. Suddenly she looked up with her face working strangely and her eyes brimming with tears. Then she forced her lips apart and went on:

"The rest of the sentence was—'now that Neal Hyland is dead.'"

"Oh—Neal"——

And that there was merciful blackness everywhere.

The merciful blackness which swallowed me when Evvy told of overhearing the discussion of Neal's death turned presently into a terrible gray waking dream. Instinctively I struggled to come out of my faint. But with a queer subconscious realization that waking would be horrible, I tried to stay on the borderland of consciousness.

Corner Blocked Off

Vaguely I realized that I was lying back in my chair with Ralph blocking off our corner from the rest of the room. Evvy's arms were around me. I could sense cold water on my temples, and I heard Ralph's voice coming from far away.

"All right, Anne! We've got you. Nothing to be frightened about. Evvy's here. We're looking out for you. No one in this busy place has an idea of what's going on. Steady, Anne."

Then I heard Evvy's voice, thick and husky with emotion:

"I had to tell her. I wouldn't have hurt her like this for the world. What are we going to do?"

Suddenly I was so sorry for these good friends that I struggled to come back, and tell them that I was all right and—could bear it. I heard my voice hazy with sleep and weakness protesting:

"Of course—you had to—tell me. I'm—all right. I'll have to—bear it. It was about Neal. I know he's gone. I'll be brave."

I looked around in terror, not sure whether I'd thought the words or had spoken them aloud. Quickly and hysterically I demanded of Evvy:

"What else did those men say? Was there anything more?"

"Just that Neal was gone. They said it over and over, as if they got some reassurance from the words," murmured Evvy, choking over it.

I winced.

Over and Over

"How do you know they didn't say it over and over again—to make sure that you heard it?" demanded Ralph, suddenly jerking his shoulders back and flinging his fine head up like a hound baying the scent he's been vainly searching and has found at last.

"Why should they do that?" stammered Evvy.

Breathlessly I waited for Ralph to answer.

"They began as soon as you got there?" Ralph asked slowly.

"You mean the men in the next room started talking as soon as the woman who had befriended me in my search took me to the empty room in her boarding house?" Evvy gave back, painfully.

Ralph took a new tack.

"She—befriended you for value received, didn't she?"

"Yes, of course I paid her. You couldn't expect her to take an interest in me and my cause unless I made it worth while."

Ralph didn't reply to this. Instead, he demanded:

"And as soon as she ushered you into that empty room the men next door began talking. Or were they talking when you came in?"

"I don't know," said Evvy, in a puzzled tone.

"Were they talking loud or whispering?"

Talking Loud Enough

"Oh, they were talking loud enough for me to hear plainly. I told you I could see through a crack between the double doors that separated the rooms from each other. And I could hear through it, too."

"There's too much coincidence in Evvy's story," said Ralph suddenly. "To the newspaper man or the detectives, coincidence always suggests a plant. I know that some women believe in it. But when the long arm of circumstance gets stretched too far, I always feel it's stretched out of joint."

"You think I was—taken in?" demanded Evvy.

I couldn't be sure whether she was offended or relieved.

"But I heard those men with my own ears," insisted Evvy with stubborn conviction. "And I saw clothes — things through the crack."

The picture her word called up was hideous. I found myself imagining those birds of prey [illegible] Neal's clothes—the material things that remained after he was gone. I gasped out a protest. Ralph spoke briskly:

BONUS BUREAU READY TO LEND HAND TO ALL

If there's any question about the adjusted compensation due veterans of the World War, which the vet can't decide, a staff of experts is waiting to give him a hand at the American-Advertiser's Soldier's Friend Bureau.

If the ex-soldier boy is too busy to pay a personal visit a few lines dropped in one of Uncle Sam's mail boxes will reach this office and immediate response will be made.

All the intricate points of the new law—how much you're entitled to—how to go about getting it—and various other questions will be decided free of charge.

Thousands already have taken advantage of the friendly aid advanced by the American and Advertiser.

Following are some of the questions and answers:

E. H., MONTREAL, CANADA.

Q.—I served from August, 1917, until February, 1919, in the U. S. Army without overseas service. Please tell me how much I am entitled to receive, and will the War Department tell me when they receive my application, as I live in Canada?

A.—From your length of service you will be entitled to a credit of $1 per day for each day of home service, after deducting the first 60 days, which will amount to $455. When this amount is turned into a 20-year paid-up policy it will have a face value of about $1,150. After you have filed your application you will receive an acknowledgment with a number on it which you should keep until you receive your certificate, which will be issued about January 1, 1925, or shortly thereafter.

MRS. M. A. F., FALL RIVER.

Q.—My son served overseas in the Navy during the World War. Six months after his discharge he married and has since died, leaving a widow and no children. (1) Am I entitled to the bonus? (2) He also took out a Government Insurance Policy which I have since lost in a fire. Am I entitled to his insurance?

A.—(1) If your son left a widow who has not remarried since his death she will be the only person entitled to make application for the bonus. If she has remarried and no children under 18 years of age survive, you, as the dependent mother of the veteran, will be eligible to receive the bonus.

(2) Write to the War Risk Insurance Bureau, Washington, D. C., giving all the information possible about the policy which your son carried and request them to advise you if the policy was in force at the time of your son's death, and whether you were named as the beneficiary.

W. H. H., TAUNTON, MASS.

Q.—Please answer the following questions about the bonus blank:

(1) Instructions for answering items 12 and 19?

(2) Where to send filled-out application in Washington, service being in the Army?

(3) Is it permissible for the veterans' parents to answer item 20 which calls for two witnesses?

A.—(1) The answer to No. 12 in the application should be typewritten or printed out carefully. In No. 19 the word "person" should be written there if the veteran is making application, or the words "widow," "child," "mother" or "father," as the case may be, if the dependent is making the application.

(2) Completed application blanks should be sent to Adjusted Compensation Bureau, Adjutant-General's Office, Washington, D. C., if the veteran's last service was in the Army; Bureau of Navigation if the last service was in the Navy, and U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., if the last service was in the Marine Corps.

(2) There is nothing in the bonus law or regulations prohibiting the parents of a veteran from filling out item No. 20 as witnesses.

H. C. W., CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

Q.—I lost my discharge papers and would thank you to inform me where I could get a duplicate, and whether I can fill out the bonus application without the discharge papers.

A.—It is not necessary for veterans to obtain copies of lost discharge papers. The answers contained in the bonus blank should be answered from memory as fully as possible.

INDUSTRIAL GAS SAVES WASTE

Unique Installation in Chelsea Plant Proves Big Success

When you put on a pair of suspenders the chances are that the fabric from which they were made was manufactured with the help of gas. Gas is stepping into industries every day, making possible both a better standard of manufacture and a more efficient production record.

Not long ago the engineering staff of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company undertook to better the methods of manufacture used at the Chelsea plant of the Everlastick Company by introducing the use of industrial gas in the making of webbing for surgical uses, bandages, supporters, articles of wearing apparel and suspenders.

STEAM FORMERLY USED.

Steam played a large part in the shrinking and sizing of fabrics. Fifty pounds of steam circulated under pressure through a system of pipes which contained small openings through which the steam escaped. The fabric came in contact with these tiny streams as it was drawn across the pipes.

Fluctuation in steam pressure interfered with production and was the cause of many complaints. In short, the method in use was not satisfactory, and the resultant economic loss was considerable.

Enter Industrial Gas engineering practices: After a study of conditions a metal container 30 inches long, 10½ inches deep, and 13 inches wide was made. This box, half full of water, was set up with a blue flame gas burner under it which boiled the water, producing a constant supply of steam in the upper portion of the container.

VICTORY FOR GAS.

The webbing, passing through a slot in the top of the box received the required steam treatment under much better conditions. Another victory for Industrial Gas.

Five other machines using this method are now under construction and the operator, after many expostulations contrarywise, has been convinced that this was just what they needed all the time.

It is one of the satisfactions of Industrial Gas pioneering that machines of not only converted to gas operation, but men are converted to gas also—quite often in the face of most emphatic opposition and skepticism.

A further introduction of gas in the business has mightily pleased the Everlastick Company. In mercerizing their webbing, they were using electrically heated machines of fifteen irons, five rows of three irons each. These irons have been rebuilt and are now gas-fired at a material saving in the cost of operation.

$182 MONTHLY SAVING.

This experience with the industrial use of gas has lead the Everlastick Company to consider the conversion of heating rolls in still another department to gas-firing. This change in firing will give an estimated saving of $182 per month during the summer season over the present coal fuel expense.

The history of this case is typical of industrial gas installations in the betterment of working conditions, the elimination of inefficient and expensive methods, and the financial advantage which resulted.

It is another convincing proof that gas is the only fuel that burns without waste, and that not matter what the processes of manufacture may be, gas will introduce simplicity of method and economy of operation. Truly, "If it's done with heat—you can do it better with gas!"
